Wapon leaves football, keeps administration job

After 20 years as a coach in Antioch High School's football program, Steve Wapon, head varsity grid coach for the last 10 years, has resigned his coaching position.

At the last regular meeting of the Antioch High School Board of Education, Wapon handed in his resignation, saying that there was too much pressure in holding the dual positions of assistant principal and coach.

See the sports section inside the newspaper for more information on Wapon and his years as the Sequoits' grid coach.

ACHS Business Mgr. Ken Wierschem told the board that the school will be spending up to $50,000 the first year, and maybe more in successive years, to adhere to state laws governing the removal of asbestos or the potential removal of any material containing asbestos. The cost will include periodic inspections, labor, and extensive record keeping.

Thursday, Dec. 17, at 7 p.m. was set as the date for the public hearing on the proposed tax levy which shows a 13.027 percent increase over last year's budget. According to Wierschem, the increase includes the new property values from recent construction added to the district's equalized assessed valuation.

In other business, the board:

— approved the hiring of Sharon Pitcher as an assistant gymnastics coach and a substitute teacher.

— set the December board meeting for final approval of next year's school calendar that has school starting on Aug. 29, 1988 and closing on June 13, 1989.

— approved the school's participation in the Ill. State Driver Testing Program under which students passing the road test given by the school's driving instructors will be exempt from said road test when applying for their drivers license.

Two fires destroy two story buildings

Two serious fires in Antioch have destroyed both two story frame homes. One may have been started by puppies that perished in the fire and the other is of suspicious origin.

Wells pleads guilty, faces six years

John Wells, Jr., son of former Antioch Police Chief Jack Wells, entered a negotiated plea of guilty to charges of delivering a kilo of cocaine to undercover agents in the Lake County Court of Judge John Goshgarian.

He is set to be sentenced by Goshgarian on Dec. 31. Wells faces up to six years in prison on this one charge. He also still faces trials on two other charges.

According to Asst. Fire Chief Wayne Parthun, when the Antioch Fire Dept. arrived at the first fire, on Oak Ln., off of Rte. 173, at 3 a.m. on Saturday, the second floor was totally involved in flame.

The Lake Villa Fire Dept. was called on for assistance but the building was totally destroyed with damages estimated at $75,000.

The uninsured building was held in trust for a Bob Ronan, whose nephew Joe Ronan was living in the building. Two hours after the fire department arrived, Joe Ronan appeared on the scene and told firemen that there had been no gas for heat in the building for over a year. He had been heating it with electric space heaters.

Ronan said he had put a space heater on the floor to keep 14 puppies warm and it is assumed that the puppies knocked over the heater and started the fire.

The second fire took place at 1:10 a.m. on Monday, at 42940 Rte. 45, in a farm building owned by a Glenn Nelson.

Parthun said that the fire department had answered a similar fire call at the same address a week before. Both fires are considered to be of suspicious origin. The previous fire seemed to be caused by a flammable liquid on the outside of the building while the one on Monday may have been started inside the building.

Firemen Chuck Bischoff narrowly missed serious injury in the Monday fire when a roof collapsed as he stood in an interior doorway. He was treated by the rescue squad on the scene for bruises and foreign matter in his eyes.

According to Parthun, the fact that a fireman was injured would make this aggravated arson which calls for a mandatory prison sentence. Parthun added that the conditions of this fire are similar to other fires in Channel Lake, that have been deemed arson.

Ferrigan faces 6 charges in Spencer death

While Lou Ann Spencer, 31, Antioch, remains in serious condition in Victory Memorial Hospital, Waukegan, the man charged with causing the accident that put her there has been indicted by a Lake County Grand Jury.

Jefferey Ferrigan, 27, Ingleside, was indicted on six counts, one count of reckless homicide, four counts of felony DUI and driving on a revoked drivers license last week. He was arraigned in Lake County Court on these charges on Monday.

Ferrigan had no drivers license because he had lost it in connection with another drunken driving arrest in Fox Lake.

Ferrigan posted a $100,000 bond and will face trial.

Spencer's mother-in-law, Betty Spencer, 55, was killed in the three car accident that occurred on Nov. 8 on Grass Lake Rd.

Ferigan's truck hit the rear of a truck driven by Cliff McGuire, Antioch, careened across the highway, hitting the Spencer automobile.

Ferrigan was hospitalized with injuries and a passenger in his truck, Ronald Welker, 24, Texas, was also seriously hurt.

Lou Ann Spencer's son, Shane, 3, was uninjured. He was strapped in a baby seat in the rear of the car.

Antioch will be glowing

Thousands of sparkling, twinkling lights, turning the Village of Antioch into a gleaming fairyland on all the nights during the Christmas holidays, is what the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry has in mind.

To start with the Chamber will light the white twinkle lights in the trees on all the streets in the retail community simultaneously with Mayor Ray Toft, when he lights the village Christmas trees in front of the village hall.

The lighting ceremony will take place at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 27.

For the first time, the lighting ritual will be followed by a glittering Christmas Parade sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Dept., in which Santa will make his arrival.

Santa will not be available to talk to children individually on that night but he will be in his Christmas Castle, which has been moved to the walk-through park off of Main St., next to JJ. Blinkers.

The Chamber will have the castle and the park aglow with more lights. Santa will be available to visit with area children and go over their Christmas lists with them starting on Saturday, Nov. 28 until Christmas. Check with the village hall for times that Santa will be in his castle.

Dentist works at being Mr. Olympia

by GLORIA DAVIS

Antioch has a celebrity body builder in dentist Dr. Val Vallese who has been named Mr. Universe in the middle weight class.

The judging of the Mr. Universe Contest, with winners in four separate weight categories, is set to be shown on the ESPN tv network sometime in January.

Vallese also holds the title of Mr. Midwest and now that he possesses the top amateur title in body building he intends to turn professional and go after the Mr. Olympia title which is the top professional award.

Well-known muscle-man Arnold Schwarzenegger is a former Mr. Olympia.

Vallese, who got into body building as a way to relieve academic stress when he was in college studying dentistry at Marquette in Milwaukee, in 1982, says it takes up most of his time outside of that which he spends in his dentist's office at the Antioch Dental Center on Lake St.

He is single and 29 but his work at perfecting his body takes the place of a social life. His normal week day starts with exercises from 6 to 8:30 a.m. From 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., he works at keeping his patients' smiles in top form.

Then its back to the weight machines for two more hours, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. His work in the gym is faithfully done six days a week.

Body building actually falls into the category of entertainment as well as health and since Vallese is turning pro, he too has an agent.

"Your name has to be well known to be able to win any of the big professional titles," says Vallese. He has done some modeling and would like to do a lot more.

His arm muscles are so well developed that this reporter could not help but note that he was wearing a short sleeve that had particularly wide sleeves to accommodate those muscles.

Johns wins award for her poetry

Antioch Community High School student Rebecca Johns won an honorable mention in the poetry competition at a recent University of Wisconsin-Whitewater Creative Writing Festival.

This festival included creative writing students from high schools in southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois.

John's poem entitled "Good Night, Saigon," describes the experiences of a soldier during the Vietnam war. Her award was one of only five given in the poetry category.

Johns is seeking the title of Miss Illinois Coed. She is a senior honor student at Antioch High School and on the staff of the school paper the "Tom Tom." She had expressed a desire to make journalism her career.

Millburn OKs bond bids, purchases fifth new bus

The Millburn School Dist. 24 Board of Education has received the first bids for the school's addition project.

The addition was approved by voters earlier this year will also include remodeling of existing facilities.

The bonds bid of 7.9 percent was awarded to the Illinois Company for $1,325,000. The second portion of the bond will be awarded next spring. Selling those bonds will enable the district to acquire the money to remodel and add to the present facility as the referendum allows. Millburn's board, after a lengthy discussion, decided to purchase a fifth bus for the district from three solicited bids. The additional bus is expected to reduce the current overcrowding on the current buses and shorten the longest bus route.

In personnel business, Carol Aller was gired as a board clerk and Cheryl Kucera was hired to replace Carol Crane. Bettylou Miller was placed on the substitute teacher list.

The board appointed committees for the next two years, reappointed legal counsel, school accountant and financial consultant.

Principal Gary Cybul gave the board a report on the school's system.

Graduates

Second Lt. Dean W. Haviland, son of Michael J. and Rosemary Haviland, Antioch, has graduated from U. S. Air Force pilot training and has received silver wings at Williams Air Force Base, Ariz. He is a 1986 graduate of Southern Ill. University Carbondale.

RING

If this is all your phone is capable of, it's selling your business short.

A business phone without the right features can literally have you running in circles. Running to get others to the phone. Scurrying to answer other phones. Or rushing back and forth for information.

Illinois Bell's Executive Package can help businesses with 2-6 lines operate more efficiently, simply by making your present phones more flexible... It lets you transfer calls, answer incoming calls from any phone in the office, even make conference calls... all to help improve productivity.

If your phone number begins with 395-, Executive Package is now available in your area. And if you order before December 5th, you will save 49%-70% on

Dist. 4 County Board race focusing on key issues

Dist. 4 County Board challengers Larry Leafblad and Suzi Schmidt have come out swinging, zeroing in on issues that they say the County Board has not properly addressed.

They are challenging incumbents Fred Popp (R-Lake Villa) and James Fields (R-Antioch) for two Republican nominations in the March primary. Fields is the County Board Chairman.

At the screening session before the Republican Central Committee, Schmidt and Leafblad said that garbage is the number one problem facing Lake County. Leafblad said that "we must buy some time if we can and address this problem immediately or we are going to have garbage that has no place to go."

He suggested that one means of expanding the three year time limit before a crisis hits would be to examine tipping contracts and import less garbage than the county is now. Currently, Lake County landfills accept more garbage from outside the county than is generated in the county. It is the biggest net importer of solid waste in the Chicago Metropolitan area.

Turning their attention to building and zoning problems in Dist. 4, the two candidates issued a position paper this week on the controversy surrounding Bob Streicher, Lake County Director of the building and zoning department. Streicher has been charged with a lack of effort in enforcing county codes in western Lake County.

"There is no argument with Bob Streicher," they began.

"The argument is with enforcement and getting the job done. In our discussions with a prominent Lake County builder, we were told and we agree, that Bob Streicher is a good man for a tough job. We are only saying do the job.

"People who live in Highland Park wouldn't understand how it can be permitted that one family live next to barnyard animals in the yard next door. Libertyville wouldn't allow one of their fancy new subdivisions to have a man pulling out motors and running a garage in a new or old residential area. Lake Forest wouldn't allow a man to tow lifeless auto hulks to his property for storage because he wants to start a junk yard and has to start somewhere."

"Nobody would allow agricultural buildings and land to be fenced in to be turned into a business. Almost all municipalities wouldn't allow well-drilling rigs to be parked on residential streets along with 16-wheel gravel trucks.

"Northwest Lake County (Dist. 4) is the dumping ground of Lake County. It's where you'll find more pole barns per square mile in prime commercial/retail spots than any part of the county. It's where you'll find more sign clutter, more billboards per linear mile, more mini-storage warehouses in choice real estate than anywhere in the county.

"Do you suppose that The Corporate Woods (the new development on Rtes. 45 and 21 south of Hawthorn Center) would allow metal buildings, used car lots located on filled-in swamp land, unconforming taverns and unregulated RV parking in their area?

"Do you suppose that a man could turn his vacant lot into a permanent campground anywhere else but in Dist. 4? Do you suppose that a business could thumb its nose at its building department by hiding the problem with fencing anywhere else in Lake County? Do you suppose that the members of the building and zoning committee have taken the time to look at the squalor? The junk? The junk cars? The septic ooze oozing out from under the ground into neighbors' yards?

"No, there is nothing wrong with the structure. There is nothing wrong with the man himself.

"All we're asking is that it be done, with no retribution to people who are lodging the complaints and keeping dialogue with the department. And we pledge that if it's not done, by the time we take office, something will be done."

Vacation photography-guide to good photos

by JIM WARNEK, President
North Star Travel, Inc.

If you're seeking detailed technical information such as f-stops, shutter speed, focal lengths and the like, look for magazines with titles like "National Photography Monthly." I am just a lay person who takes my Cannon Sure-Shot with me on vacation. The advice I offer comes from traveling more than most people, hence I take more vacation photographs. (They're not really vacations. It's my job. Hey, somebody's got to do it.)

Let's start with camera types. A radio commercial currently playing mentions there are 58 brands of automatic "does everything for you" type of cameras on the market. Anyone of say, the top 20 in that lot, will do just fine.

I would recommend a 35mm, though. The larger negative will usually give a better picture. You do not need any of the fancy telephoto, wide angle or fish eye lenses unless the sole purpose of your vacation is to come home with a picture you can sell to "National Geographic." Actually, most of the photographs in that publication are taken with the same 50mm lens that comes with your camera, using film you can buy at Oso.

One accessory I would recommend is a polarized filter. This allows you to shoot pictures through the window of your tour bus without ending up with a picture of your reflection.

One last bit of technical info: I've found an ASA speed of 200 will allow for good pictures even on cloudy days when ASA 100 might not be fast enough.

Now let's get to the important stuff. Pull out the pictures from that last trip to Florida. Which ones do you find the most interesting a year later? Most likely you'll find them to be the ones with something called a "center of interest." I don't mean the shot of the family standing in front of the car under the sign "Welcome to Disney World," but more like the one of little Joey smiling with joy (or fear) when he first meets Mickey Mouse. That shot is much more interesting than the ocean from your hotel room window.

In other words, a person, object, or some action lends a center of interest to a picture. Please don't pose your subjects. Candid shots are much more genuine and more fun to take.

Take more than one shot of an interesting situation. Film is cheap considering the disappointment if one picture does not come out. Early morning and late afternoon provide the most dramatic lighting. Other suggestions for an interesting shot: look at the postcards in the gift shop. Blend their ideas with your own and create a masterpiece.

A well planned photograph is much more important than a $500 camera. Give it a try.

Women of Moose open meeting with 19 stars

The Star Recorder Chapter night program of the Antioch Women of the Moose was opened by Senior Regent Julie Gajewski, with 19 Stars representing 12 chapters. Star Chairman Jerri Polson directed the guides and star recorders to escort the special guest, Past Deputy Grand Regent Esther Carty, into the chapter room.

With this enrollment, the chapter has made the year in candidates. A chapter pin was awarded to Co-worker Mary Schroeder by Junior Regent Margie Turner. The chapter prepared for balloting on candidates for membership. The ballot was favorable.

Recorder Louise Gutowski read the minutes of previous chapter and Board of Officers meetings. A motion to adopt was made by Asst. Guide Pearl Roach, seconded by Musician Louise Imburgia and approved by the chapter.

Reports were heard by Mooseheart Chairman Beth Muelnickel; Star Recorder Chairman Jerri Polson; and Child Care Chairman Gail Schultz.

Birthday marchers were Escort Jennie Volpentesta and Co-worker Lorraine Silwa, and a chapter pin was awarded to Co-worker Clair Godfrey. Junior grad. Regent Theresa Grefkowicz was escorted from the room so Ritual Director Mavis Dingsdale could inform the chapter of a surprise for her at her Green Cap meeting.

Escort Ruth Rynders was presented with a gift as previous "Co-Worker of the Month," as she was absent then, and Co-worker Bobby Knackstedt was chosen as this month's "Co-Worker of the Month" and was presented at the altar for a gift and her picture was taken by Publicity Chairman Anita Osborn.

The Library Chapter meeting will be Dec. 3; Green Cap Chapter meeting, Sunday, Dec. 16, at 2 p.m.; Chapter Christmas party, 6:30 p.m. on Dec. 10, with a $5 grab bag; children's Christmas party, 2 p.m. on Dec. 19 (must be pre-registered); seniors' Christmas dinner, 2 p.m. on Dec. 20 (reservations required).

Crane adds to staff

Twelfth Dist.
Congressman Philip M. Crane has announced that David C. Simons, a long-time resident of Palatine, has joined his Congressional staff.

Simons will serve as a legislative assistant, responsible for House Ways and Means Committee legislation, including taxes. Crane is the fourth senior Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee, and senior Republican member of the Trade Subcommittee.

ObituariesCharles L. Vallee

age 71, of Antioch, Illinois passed away Friday, Nov. 20, 1987 at St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago, Illinois.

He was born March 5, 1916 in Panama, Illinois and had lived in Mt. Prospect for many years before moving to Antioch permanently in 1983; but had had a summer home in the area since 1947. He was a member of St. Peter's Church in Antioch; was the owner and operator of the Superior Office Supply Co. from which he was semi-retired. On April 29, 1938, he married LaVerne Vogt in Chicago.

Survivors include his wife, LaVerne; one son, Charles S. (Barbara) Vallee of Rolling Meadows, Illinois; two daughters, Joyce (Ralph) Zeien and Geraldine Anderson, both of Scottsdale, Ariz.; two sisters, Theresa Sunstrom and Nettie Barnhart, both of Chicago; 11 grandchildren; and one greatgranddaughter.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, Nov. 24, with Mass of the Christian Burial at St. Peter's Church, Antioch. Interment was at Mt. Carmel Cemetery, Antioch. Arrangements were by STRANG FUNERAL HOME, Antioch, Illinois.

Cecilia Marie Proesel

(nee Henneman) age 74, a Fremont Center resident for over 45 years and the wife of one of the pioneer farmers in that area, died on Sunday, November 22, 1987 in Woodstock, Illinois.

Mrs. Proesel was born on September 23, 1913 in Lena, Wisconsin, the daughter of William and Barbara Henneman. She and her late husband were longtime members of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Fremont Center, where she was also a member of the Altar and Rosary Society. She assisted her husband at the Proesel Farm on North Bacon Rd. for over 42 years. She was an election judge for many years at the Fremont

School, the township garage and the Ivanhoe Church. Mrs. Proesel and her late husband Herbert were united in marriage on November 23, 1943 at St. Mary's Church in Buffalo Grove.

Surviving are two sons, George (Linda) Proesel and John (Bonnie) Proesel; two grandsons, Steven C. and David H. Proesel, all of McHenry, Illinois; one sister, Marie Gomand of Green Bay, Wisconsin; three brothers, William (Lorraine) Henneman of Westmont, Illinois, Norbert (Eleanor) Henneman of Ludington, Michigan, and George (Esther) Henneman of Lena, Wisconsin; nieces, nephews and other relatives survive. Mrs. Proesel was preceded in death by her husband, Herbert F. Proesel, in 1982.

Visitation was held Tuesday, November 24, 1987 at the K.K. HAMSHER FUNERAL HOME, 12 N. Pistakee Lake Rd., Fox Lake, Illinois, in the Chapel on the Lake. A funeral mass was celebrated at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 25, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Fremont Center. The family will appreciate memorials for the Lake County Cancer Society or your favorite charity, in lieu of flowers.

Arthur H. Schwades

age 86, lived at Marigold Lane in DeBary, Fla., died November 17, 1987 in Sanford, Fla. He was born in Shamokin, Pa., and moved to DeBary 19 years ago from Fox Lake, Illinois, where he lived for 30 years. He was a postmaster and worked at the Ingleside Post Office. He was a member of the Lutheran Church of Providence in Delton, Fla.

Survivors include his wife, Marie; two sons, Arthur of Ocala, Fla. and Richard R. of Alexandria, Va.; one daughter, Ruby Morton of Mount Prospect, Illinois; one sister, Bertha Wendler of Collingsville, Illinois; five grandchildren and nine greatgrandchildren.

Services were held at the BALDAUFF CHAPEL, Deltona, Fla., on Friday, November 20, 1987, at 1 p.m.

Love-hate relationship

One of the messages that came through loud and clear from the annual meeting last weekend of the Illinois Assn. of School Boards is that schools are sick and tired of getting battered around by the General Assembly.

Concerned educators viewed lawmakers' recent actions of imposing new requirements on the schools while underfunding existing activities as "ordering a big meal and walking off without paying the check." That's a rugged charge, but it's also pretty accurate.

The conference produced a flurry of resolutions blistering the Legislature, including one that would require all future laws affecting public schools to be based on factual research. This arose from allegations that some of the 1985 school reforms were not supported by the facts.

School officials also took lawmakers to task for passage of Senate Bill 536, which in effect allows teachers to strike for as long as they want without fear of losing salary. Considerable time was spent discussing how spiraling utility costs erode funds available to educate children. Legislation was called for permission to allow school boards to levy taxes to pay utility bills. Educators also voiced opposition to tax relief measures that cut into the base of financial support of the schools, such as homestead exemptions, property tax freezes and farmland assessments.

From our perspective, dealings between the schools and legislators amounts to a love-hate relationship. It isn't pretty and no one knows where the adversarial atmosphere will lead.

Sensible flood relief

Finally, government is beginning to get a handle on dealing with flooding problems by providing a mechanism to keep people from building homes in flood prone areas. That makes a lot more sense than monstrous public works projects to build dikes and reservoirs, and dole out flood relief.

The sensible step in the right direction is House Bill 998, signed into law Nov. 18 by Gov. Thompson, which bans new construction within the 100-year floodway of the Des Plaines River and its tributaries in Cook, Lake and DuPage Counties, and authorizes the state to make grants to local governments to acquire open space within the 100-year flood plain. There also is a provision for $10 million in low-interest state loans to local governments in the six-county metropolitan area for storm sewers and sanitary treatment plants.

A Republican from Crystal Lake, which is near flood sensitive areas of the Fox River, State Rep. Dick Klemm, was a co-sponsor of the landmark legislation. Klemm rightly points out that additional flood control proposals must be considered by the General Assembly next year. The Fox River waterway is flood prone and immediately comes to mind for consideration for Des Plaines River-type legislation. State Rep. Robert Churchill (R-Lake Villa), another co-sponsor said, "The damage (from flooding) has been estimated at more than $142 million. Now we have a sweeping law that will prevent homes from being destroyed."

One of the significant features of HB 998 is that local governments must form stormwater management planning committees to develop plans for state review. This means that both counties and municipalities will be establishing on-going machinery to deal with the ever-present flood dangers.

HB 998 is model legislation and most welcome in an area where periodic flooding has become a major problem.

Well-serving diversity

There was a time when industry hereabouts meant businesses like a wire mill, tannery, rubber tire factory, foundry, tractor plant, roofing materials plant, outboard motor maker, even a brewery or two; heavy stuff, where people sweated and got their hands dirty. Most of these firms are part of the local history now as Lake County has moved into things like pharmaceuticals, health care products, light manufacturing and high tech.

The nature of industry has changed, as this county and Illinois moves toward a service industry economy predominated by white collar jobs.

The number of white collar jobs in Illinois is projected to increase through 1995, according to a survey prepared by the Illinois Dept. of Employment Security. However, the nature of those white collar jobs is expected to change from business to the service industry, according to the study.

Illinois will have an estimated 3.234 million white collar positions in 1995, up 477,000 from the 2.757 million in 1982. In 1995, 56.6 percent of jobs will be white collar, compared with 55.3 percent in 1982. The largest increase (21.6 percent) is forecast for the marketing and sales fields, followed by the professional and technical occupations (18 percent). The department sees a smaller increase in the number of clerical positions due to the spread of office automation.

Service positions are expected to increase by 20.9 percent, indicating a continued shift in the state's economy from production of goods to service production.

Blue collar jobs are expected to increase to a total of 1.475 million in 1995, an increase of 119,000 or 8.8 percent. While manufacturing jobs are expected to increase at a slow rate, above-average growth could take place in computer-aided manufacturing.

From the aspect of job mix, Lake County is a microcosm of the state. The diversity serves us well. In our corner of the state, 1987 is closing out with record high employment and a robust economy.

Now's the time

With early-bird retailers putting on Yuletide displays and festooning their stores with red and green earlier every year, it's awfully difficult getting into the Christmas spirit while jack-o'-lanterns are still glowing and the balmy breezes of Indian summer are stirring falling leaves.

That's all changed now with Thanksgiving coming and going, and snow flurries in the air. Now's the time to hang the lights and get in the mood. The holidays are awash in a myriad of emotions. One of the things we've noticed happening in recent years—and it's a good sign—is that more thought is being given to the real meaning of Christmas even as some aspects of the holy season become more commercial all the time.

Now's the time. Let joy abound. Let the celebration begin.

College chief maintaining fast pace

by BILL SCHROEDER

Dr. Daniel LaVista, the mustachioed youthful president of College of Lake County, hasn't slowed his pace in getting acquainted with the CLC community, even after six months on the job.

If he was a politician, you'd say that LaVista is out "pressing the flesh." If he was in command of a Navy vessel, you'd say that he is "showing the flag." As a practical matter, LaVista feels that by appearing at as many public functions as possible, he is getting acquainted with Lake County at the same time Lake County residents are getting acquainted with CLC.

"Lake County is unique," LaVista remarked over eggs and toast. "It's really a 'county of counties'." LaVista constantly is amazed at the diversity of the area served by CLC.

LaVista is the third president in the school that is not yet 20 years old. Even in the short time he has been on the job, the native of upstate New York is determined to become a part of Lake County.

One of LaVista's tasks is getting CLC ready for the 1990's. In an area of burgeoning population, that means building. It also means expansion on the policy of outreach centers such as the extensions in Waukegan and North Shore. Most likely spot for another facility would be in the southwest part of the county. That feasibility is being studied.

NO THANKS—Jaws dropped among the legislative contingent at the comment of one speaker at the Governor's Small Business Roundtable at College of Lake County.

Patricia Valentino, who identified herself as a consultant for the firearm industry, urged that the state do more to promote small businesses in the arms and ammunition business. Knowing the anti-gun feeling in many suburban communities, the solons didn't want to touch that one with a 10-foot pole. They did hear out Ms. Valentino, however.

OVERTONES—No one is talking about it, but indications are that the surprise resignation of popular Wanda Grever as village clerk of Lake Zurich after 25 years is the result of overtones from last April's bitter village election in which Harold Crane and Burnell Donovan, campaigning on a reform theme, won seats on the board.

FRINGE BENEFIT—Here's a job benefit most employees don't even know they have. A new survey conducted by Adia Personnel Service shows that employees spend the equivalent of a three-week vacation socializing. The finding is part of a poll of 1,104 personnel decision makers.

If you think the boss is going to turn off the water cooler and hide the coffee pot, take cheer. Many respondents to the poll feel that the idle chit chat about cars, kids and tv programs watched the night before fosters camaraderie and team spirit that are essential to company success.

So things down at the office or shop aren't so bad after all.

NEW LOOK—Mallard Creek Shopping Center, now under construction on Rollins Rd. in Round Lake Beach, will be positioned in a new niche in that it is too small to be a regional center, yet it will be bigger than the conventional local shopping center. Developers expect to have space for up to 38 tenants with Dominick's, Wal-Mart and a general merchandise store yet to be named as the anchors. Trident Developers is employing the "in-between" concept with success elsewhere in the Chicago area.

BRIGHT SIDE—Congressman Phil Crane says there's a bright side to the battering Wall Street took last month. Democrats should now realize that they must cut back on domestic spending to help reduce the staggering budget deficit, according to Crane. Crane further states that President Reagan is doing his part by opening the door for defense cuts. Crane is against increasing taxes, which is a liberal way of dealing with the deficit. We're with Phil.

Building problems

Editor:

In view of the problems my husband and I are having with the Dept. of Building and Zoning and their negligent inspections, I found your editorial extremely interesting.

Perhaps if Bob Streicher tended to his own business instead of Jim Semmerling, Streicher could keep up with the faulty inspections his incompetent inspectors are doing.

In your editorial you also stated that Helen Amendola gave Streicher a job rating of excellent and proficient. Helen had better consult her dictionary on the meaning of these two words.

To those County Board members who will be seeking reelection, I hope you are prepared to be held accountable.

Leafblad, Schmidt hitting hard on crucial issues

IN DIST. 4, an issues-oriented campaign is shaping up. After starting off with six or seven months of solid organizing, challengers Larry Leafblad of rural Avon Twp. and Suzi Schmidt of Lake Villa are beginning to hit at issues - and they have a feel for them.

The two are challenging incumbent board members James Fields (R-Antioch) and Fred Popp (R-Lake Villa) for two Republican nominations in the March primary. Fields is also chairman of the County Board.

At the screening session before the Republican Central Committee, Leafblad and Schmidt said that garbage is the number one problem facing the county and that action has to be taken before time runs out. While such words have been heard before, it is interesting to hear them coming from these two. They are identified as coming from the independent wing of the party, the wing that, last year, when the regulars were proposing a bad solution, contended that there was no serious problem.

It would be a step in the right direction if every wing of both parties could agree that there is a problem that has to be dealt with quickly before we are awash in garbage. In a conversation with Dist. 5 Rep. Mike Graham a few weeks ago, he said the answer is recycling and people won't accept that until the crisis is here. I got the feeling he welcomed the coming crisis as a means of accomplishing his goal. Just moments before, he had decried the prevalence of "government by crisis" in this county.

In my mind, the biggest four problems the county must deal with in coming years are garbage, sewage treatment, water availability, and planning growth in a manner that will help, rather than hurt the quality of life in this county.

Time is running out on garbage. Fortunately, the Joint Action Solid Waste Agency is moving posthaste to deal with that problem. They are probably getting something done because they are municipal officials. They'll be the first to be hit by the crisis so they don't have time to posture on the subject as some of our County Board Members do.

In some areas of the county, sewage treatment plants are operating above capacity. The no-growth elements would prefer to do nothing because if you don't have sewers, you can't grow. But this is a pollution problem as well as a growth question. A few years ago, sewage starting leaching through the soil in some areas of Long Lake and there was an outbreak of hepatitis. Who gets it first? Who plays in the mud? It isn't parents.

As for water, I stood a year and a half ago and listened as Graham told residents of Round Lake Beach that they were endangered because of radium in their water supply and that they must suspend growth because there was not enough available clean, potable water. Two weeks ago, I listened to him tell me that we didn't need Lake Michigan water because there is more than we will ever need in the ground. I'm not sure which position is correct, but they can't both be. Somebody's speaking with a forked tongue here.

As for growth, on the one hand we've got the goofs who want to build everywhere there is an open inch, including on the flood plain. That is planned obsolescence with a vengeance. Then there are others who don't want to let a stick of growth go up. Oddly, most of those folks already live in developed areas which have a substantial business and commercial tax base, thus alleviating much of the homeowner's tax bill they would have to pay if they actually lived among those of us who are awash in open space.

Another animal is dead today

by BEVERLY J. SALO

We put your kitten to sleep at 1:15 this morning. You know, the small black and white one, sleek-furred and friendly - about six months old, we'd say. As it lay there on the curb, wet and bleeding, its eyes open, whining gently but still purring.

We thought you'd want to know because it was your cat. At least we thought you ought to know that it is dead. Two dogs in the neighborhood cornered the kitten, fought with it, and finally chewed through its backbone and broke its legs.

Oh, it fought hard but the dogs were too big, your cat too small, too young. So we did what we had to do. We had no choice. But you did. Every year, literally scores of people leave their cats behind hoping, we are sure, that they'll find a new home. But cats procreate and soon there are too many.

Maybe you didn't want to know that it had to be killed. All you wanted to remember was the delight your children had with it all summer long as it grew from an eye-closed fluff to a pretend hunter. We're sure you wanted to remember it curled up on the end of your child's bed.

But you can't remember only that, you know. You enjoyed your cat and your children enjoyed your cat. Somehow you were able to divorce that enjoyment from your responsibility. You may have taught your children love and playfulness and the wonder of nature, but you also taught them to throw away something that finally wasn't convenient, that didn't fit in with your plans.

You taught them to pass a responsibility on to others who were unknowing and unwilling. You convinced yourself - because you wanted to - that your kitten would be happy and well-fed and cared for. We're sure you even rationalized yourself into believing that it would be better off, really, out there with all those other cats.

Our field volunteer has to deal with these situations day-in and day-out. Our two traps are set every day to try to catch colonies of cats and wild kittens all over the county that once belonged to someone who thought they wanted them in the first place.

The decisions that have to be made in each situation cause us to shed many tears, but it is our feeling of responsibility to these animals that makes us go on. Some are lucky to find good homes, others are not. As a pet owner, it is up to you to be responsible. You decided to be a place yourself in this position when you wanted a pet

No one said humane work was easy or fun. The burden we carry was of someone else's making. Yours?

(Editor's note: Beverly Salo is the president of the Lake County Animal Protection Society.)

Beware the trappings of incredible luxury prizes

Many people, when they receive mail stating they have won an incredible prize, wonder how to tell whether these prizes are really free.

Anytime a letter like this is received, be skeptical about the true value of these "incredible" winnings. The prize

Guest Columnist

By Neil Hartigan

may not be worth the effort and money to collect it. You only need to see the prize to understand. The four-man motorboat is usually an inflatable raft with a clamp-on battery-operated motor. The diamond is probably the size of a pinhead. A vacation for two might include discount coupons for lodging; however, the cost of transportation and food is left up to you.

In most cases, these deceptively described prizes are used as inducements to attract consumers to sales meetings for time-sharing or for business advertisement products such as pens or pencils. In any event, the prizes are frequently cheap imitations of luxury items.

The Consumer Protection Div. of the Illinois Attorney General's office has received numerous complaints about promotions that use deceptively described prizes. Consumers are also upset about the high pressure sales tactics used during sales meetings.

The next time you receive a letter informing of the luxury gift awaiting acceptance, remember to keep these points in mind:

1. Don't be deceived by letters that look official or urgent. This tactic is used frequently and is only a ploy to get one to open and read the letter.

2. Read all the enclosed literature carefully. In some instances, you must attend a sales presentation as part of the contest.

3. If attending a sales presentation or buying advertising merchandise for the sole purpose of winning a luxury prize, think twice. The chances of actually winning a valuable prize are very slim.

4. If attending a sales meeting, do not be pressured into signing a contract with a deposit. Ask for a few days to consider the decision. Call the local consumer protection office to inquire about the seller's reputation. Do not feel pressured by offers that claim to be for a "limited time only" or any effort to make you buy on the spot.

5. Do not rely on claims made by the salesperson that are not in the contract. Remember, it is the contract that counts.

(Editor's note: Neil Hartigan is the Illinois Attorney General.)

NICASA names officers

Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse (NICASA) has elected officers for the coming year.

Mead Payne will serve as chairman, with James S. Kemper III president, David Amory vice-president, Mary Ainslie treasurer, and Dr. Robert Simon secretary. Steven Stiling, Patrick Gannon, Robert Snook, and Marty Smith were elected to the board of directors.

The officers were elected at NICASA's 21st annual meeting. Special awards of appreciation were presented to Sue Smith of the Lake County Dept. of Court Services, and to Jack Scholz of Abbott Laboratories.

Red fox topic at Ryerson

The red fox, one of the county's smartest predators, will be the topic of a program for adults on Sunday, Nov. 29, at the Edward L. Ryerson Conservation Area in Deerfield.

The animal's behavior and unique adaptations will be presented by naturalist Nan Buckardt, beginning at 1:30 p.m. A short film showing the hunter at work and play will be shown, followed by a walk to one of the preserve's fox dens.

Reservations are required and limited, and can be made by calling (312) 948-7750. The fee is fifty cents for Lake County residents and $1 for non-residents.

The Ryerson Conservation Area is located on Riverwoods Rd. between Half Day and Deerfield Rds.

FL board accepts use of planner for village

by BARBARA DEGNER

The utilization of a planner to represent the village, stricter regulation of business licenses, financing a new sewage treatment plant and the abolishment of the Site Plan Review Committee occupied the Village Board at the Monday night workshop meeting.

The Board accepted the idea of using a planner to represent the village in all new developments. They want developments to coordinate with the Master Plan that's being worked on by Lane Kendig and Associates. Lane Kendig would be the logical choice for a planner, according to trustee Richard Bayne.

"The planners fee will be part of the developer's expenses," said trustee Margaret Paull.

Fred Dierker, building commissioner, announced that the developer of the 93.5 acres northeast of Rte. 12 and 134 wants to rezone. He wants to put in septic and wells instead of sewers; however, the board agreed that he must honor the preannexation agreement to install sewers and obey all subdivision ordinances.

Bayne proposed an ordinance giving the village penalty power against businesses who don't have current business licenses. He also wants to see other business license-related ordinances enforced.

The board decided to go to the county for financial assistance after hearing that they have to pay $920,433 for the new sewage plant. The total cost of the new sewage treatment plant is approximately $1,095,000, according to Marilyn Skupien, treasurer.

A Dec. 7 meeting was planned to abolish the Site Plan Review Committee after the board agreed that its duties were similar to those of the Planning Board and the Zoning Board.

"There are too many committees in our village," said Stuart Hoehne, fire chief. According to Meyer, "We're running out of people to ask to be on committees."

In other village business:

-Trustee Robert Peters presented blueprints for the interior utilization of the Village Hall by Varga & Assoc., but the board came to no agreement over the plans for remodeling.

-Chief of Police Joseph Semasko asked the board for advisement on the code-enforcement officer situation. The board decided he should hire a replacement. A motion will be made at the Dec. 7 meeting.

-A letter from HOD was presented by Darwin Follman, trustee. There is some confusion as to whether or not villagers need to call ahead for pick-up of large items such as appliances and furniture. This will be investigated for the Dec. 7 meeting.

Schedule hand out off food

The monthly surplus food distribution in Grant Twp. will be held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 2, at the Grant Twp. Office, 411 Washington St., Ingleside.

The distribution will be on a first come, first served basis and all participants must bring a commodity certification card.

Board requests input

A special public meeting of the Nippersink Dist. Library Board of Trustees will be held Monday, Nov. 30, at 7:30 p.m. for the purpose of discussing the future of the library building program.

According to Board president Diane Benesch, discussion will include the following questions: Will residents of the library district support a new library building? Should a bond referendum be put on the ballot in April, 1988? Should the referendum wait until April, 1989? Should the building program be modified? What are residents' expectations in terms of library service?

If a referendum is to be on the April, 1988 ballot, a decision will have to be made by the end of December.

The meeting will be held at the Nippersink Library, 10308 Main St. in Richmond.

Prices holding steady despite dollar

by GARY S. MEYERS and ROBERT STENBECK

Q. If the falling dollar and inflation are pressing threats to the economy, why are the prices of oil and gold declining?

A. Because there really is no threat.

By definition, when a nation's currency buys less, you have inflation. But that is not the case this time around. As the dollar has fallen this year, we have found that prices of goods and services are holding steady. Here's why:

Generally, the upward pressure on prices caused by the falling dollar—which makes imported goods more expensive—is being overshadowed by the downward pressure of commodity surpluses.

—Oil. Traditionally, the price of oil has been an inflation maker because so much of our economy is tied to the black sticky stuff.

Yet as the dollar has fallen we have seen oil prices go down, not up. For this we can thank our OPEC friends. The international oil-producing cartel continually exceeds its self-imposed quotas by 10 to 15 percent, driving oil prices well below the cartel's benchmark.

Oil surpluses are not likely to end quickly. The next meeting of OPEC will be in Vienna on Dec. 9. Oil production probably will increase by almost 30 percent above today's quotas.

The present quota of 16.6 million barrels per day could be raised to 18 million barrels daily. But allowing for traditional OPEC overproduction, look for production to be as much as 21 million barrels per day—which would be anti-inflationary.

Saudi Arabia and Kuwait are using oil production as an economic weapon against Iran. They are trying to capture Iran's oil customers by driving the price of oil lower. It would seem that to a significant degree they are succeeding—Iran's oil revenues are down by approximately $18 billion so far this year.

Iran represents a direct and overt threat to Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and the rest of the nations on the Persian Gulf. In facing this threat, Iran's oil-rich revenues are down by approximately $18 billion so far this year.

Iran's oil-rich neighbors have changed their priorities. The rulers of these countries now are more worried about saving their skins than selling oil at a profit.

The Arabs are not alone in trying to isolate Iran. Just one look at the array of naval vessels from the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and even the Soviet Union protecting tankers serving Iran's enemies in the gulf should sound a clear signal. The world's powers are not going to allow an oil shortage.

—Gold. Another traditional measure of inflation and economic uncertainty is the price of gold. Yet the price of gold is not going up either. In fact, gold prices have been sinking.

The first reason for this is that the gold bugs, those investors who squirrel away bullion as they await the day of doom, are simply not out there buying.

Second, supplies keep increasing

Energy audits could miss some cost-saving measures

by GARY S. MEYERS

Homeowners looking to reduce their winter heating bills increasingly are turning to energy audits. But consumer advocates warn that audits may miss some important cost-saving measures.

Usually subsidized by a local utility company, an energy audit involves an examination, diagnosis and prescription for conservation measures to "weatherize" a home.

The owner may be charged as little as $15 for an audit, although the service actually costs more than $100. Typically, participating utility companies pay the balance.

Since October 1981, the Illinois Energy Audits Assn., a non-profit organization funded by utility companies, has completed 200,000 residential audits.

Auditors examine the customer's attic, basement, walls, floors, windows, doors and fireplace. Also included are checks on insulation, caulking and weatherstripping, and heating and cooling systems. Then the homeowner receives a computerized report with recommendations for increasing energy efficiency and lowering fuel consumption.

Millions of dollars have been spent on energy audits nationwide, but the Alliance to Save Energy, a Washington, D.C.-based non-profit coalition of business, government and consumer leaders, warns that most audit programs give inadequate examinations.

"They fail to use state-of-the-art diagnostic equipment and techniques, and they routinely overlook several important symptoms," said James L. Wolff, executive director of the Alliance to Save Energy.

Wolf added that the programs' diagnoses and prescriptions fall short by limiting potential remedies to a standardized list of improvements and failing to determine effects of combining different conservation measures.

Consumer advocates warn that some energy companies indeed may not want their customers to save money on fuel, and the cozy relationship between home-inspection agencies and utilities may represent a conflict of interest.

Wolf said the Alliance to Save Energy is studying the drawbacks of existing audits and devising better audit methods to make home energy conservation more cost-effective.

Here are some of the problems the Alliance found with audits conducted by affiliates of local utility companies:

-Examination procedures. Most auditors use relatively simple tools—or none at all—and often overlook important symptoms when conducting closer examinations.

-Record checks. Home fuel billing records often are neglected, although an examination of them is essential.

For example, a household that spends $400 on winter heating—well below the national average of $700—may not benefit greatly from efficiency improvements that cost $1,000 but save only 15 percent of the fuel bill, or $60.

-Efficiency of mechanical systems. Heating, ventilation and air-conditioning systems often are neglected in a typical audit. At best, most adults make a rough calculation of how quickly a new, more efficient heating system or air-conditioning unit will pay for itself, without measuring the efficiency of the existing system.

"Auditors seldom carry the equipment necessary to determine the efficiency, life expectancy and safety of a home's mechanical systems," Wolf said. "Yet studies have shown that hefty savings can be realized by upgrading these systems in many houses."

For example, many older oil-fired heating systems can be fitted with flame-retention burners, which can increase efficiency by 20 percent at about a quarter of the cost of a new heating system.

-Air infiltration. A key diagnostic tool is the blower door, which helps an auditor find major or hidden leaks and decide how much time and effort to spend on plugging them. Most weatherization program auditors do not use blower doors. Instead they guess where air leaks occur, Wolf said.

-Efficiency of combined improvements. Most auditors are interested in how quickly a homeowner receives payback on the cost of energy improvements.

They rarely calculate the interaction of various efficiency measures.

For example, in a house with a $1,000 per year heating bill, installing insulation may save $300 a year, while replacing the old furnace with a new, highly efficient unit could save an additional $200, or 20 percent of the annual bill.

But if both improvements are made the savings will not total $500. That's because the efficiency gains will overlap. The insulation reduces the need for heat by 30 percent, so the efficient furnace will save its 20 percent on a $700, rather than $1,000 heating bill.

CPA Society seeks nominees

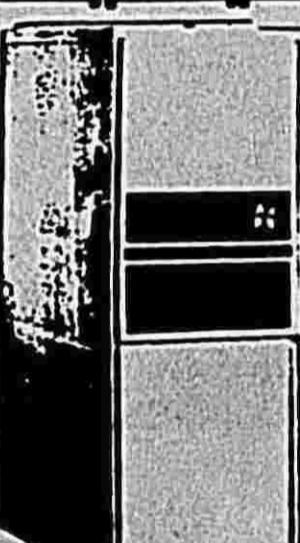

The Illinois CPA Society is accepting nominations for its 1988 Public Service Award in honor of a member who has made a difference in community, charitable, or civic organizations.

Nominees must be members of the Illinois CPA Society, although anyone can nominate a candidate. All nominations must be received by Feb. 1, 1988.

The winner will be honored at the society's annual dinner dance in June, 1988. The Illinois winner also will be recognized as part of the American Institute of CPAs national program to honor public-spirited CPAs.

For nomination forms, contact Jane Kelleky, Illinois CPA Society, 200 S. Riverside Plaza, Chicago, 60606, or call (800) 572-9850.

Baxter Healthcare Corp. has announced that it has signed an agreement to sell its home respiratory therapy business to Glasrock Home Health Care Inc., a part of BOC Health Care, for about $60 million in cash. Baxter's home respiratory therapy business includes more than 60 respiratory therapy centers nationwide that provide oxygen therapy and medical equipment to patients receiving therapy in the home. Glasrock Home Health Care, based in Atlanta, provides a full line of home medical and respiratory care services and equipment. Glasrock was founded in 1959 and was acquired by BOC Health Care, a unit of The BOC Group, in 1983.

because the Soviet Union keeps producing and exporting gold. Soviet currency has no value in the West. So when the Soviets buy from abroad such as nine million tons of grain from the U.S. this year, they must pay with gold bullion. The net result is that there's more gold around. As long as the supply increases ahead of the demand, and there is no reason for international panic, gold prices will not rise.

Interest rates. Short-term Treasury yields rose or held steady this week as long-term yields fell for the fourth consecutive week. Investors, expecting continued interest rate declines, are favoring the long-term instruments in an attempt to lock in the highest yield possible. Slackened demand accounts for the rises in short-term yields.

Savings rates. Certificate of deposit yields decreased this week, particularly on short-term instruments, according to the Meyers Report survey of savings institutions across the country. More than 37 percent of the banks and S&Ls surveyed posted decreases on six-month certificates. Sixty-eight percent of the institutions reported no changes on five-year certificates.

Loans. Nationwide, the average rate for a 30-year fixed rate mortgage fell to 11.02 percent from 11.22 percent last week. More than 57 percent of lenders surveyed posted decreases. Fifteen-year mortgage rates inched down to 10.64 percent from 10.81 percent last week and adjustable-rate mortgages declined slightly to 8.16 percent from 8.21 percent.

Auto loan rates around the nation increased slightly to 10.94 percent from last week's 10.92 percent. Fourteen percent of the lenders surveyed nationwide increased their rates, while 10 percent decreased rates.

Sara Lee employee salute includes Gurnee resident

Sara Lee Corp. has selected Marcia Howie of Gurnee as one of 16 female employees for its Salute to the Women of Sara Lee Corp.

The women were nominated by Sara Lee Corp.'s domestic divisions to represent various levels of employment in the company. Howie is a process control programmer at the Kitchens of Sara Lee in Deerfield.

"Collectively, these women represent both the quality and diversity of the women in our work force," said John H. Bryan, chairman and chief executive officer of Sara Lee Corp. "They all deal creatively with the complex roles they have chosen for themselves. Most balance not only work and family, but important community obligations as well."

Howie, who began as a clerk typist at the Kitchens of Sara Lee in 1981, is now a process control programmer in the management information systems department. In addition to working and raising two teen-age daughters, Howie recently earned her associate of science degree in computer programming at the College of Lake County.

"In the years since I came to the Kitchens of Sara Lee, I've not only grown professionally, I've grown personally," Howie said. "I'm not the same person I was before, and it's because this job has been the best change of my life."

Howie, along with the 15 others, was introduced to stockholders of Sara Lee Corp. at the company's annual meeting. A video presentation and brochure also were prepared to feature each woman at work and in community activities.

R.G. Ray Corp. completes move

The R.G. Ray Corp., the largest manufacturer of custom clamps, has completed a move of its company headquarters into The Corporate Grove at 900 Busch Parkway in Buffalo Grove.

Glenn R. Kozak, vice president and co-founder of the 16-year-old company, said it has 12,000 square feet for a two-story corporate headquarters and 50,000 square feet on a nine acre site.

Most of the clamps made by R.G. Ray are from two to 24 inches in diameter made out of 300 series stainless steel for applications in diesel engines, turbochargers, pumps, filter vessels, tubing and other products in the automotive, pool, dairy equipment and other industries. R.G. Ray also makes carbon steel clamps and a variety of fasteners.

The R.G. Ray property features a large lake, waterfall, a small stream, more than 100 bushes and trees, a bridge over water, outdoor dining for employees and many outdoor landscaping features. The corporate office and manufacturing facility are connected by a glass walkway and cafeteria that overlooks the waterfall and lake.

Kozak said one immediate benefit to the move has been the positive image it has given to customers who visit here.

When the company began in a Chicago neighborhood it has only five employees and today has 185 people on its staff, including about 25 percent hired in the past few months.

Why pay to heat this much space, when you're only using this much?

Fact is, by using an electric space heater and turning down the thermostat you can save up to 18 percent on your fuel bill this winter. Because a space heater can keep you nice and snug at 70° while you keep the rest of the house at an economical 60°.

It's that 10° that makes the difference. You get the heat you need where you want it, in the rooms you're spending time in. That means you conserve everywhere else.

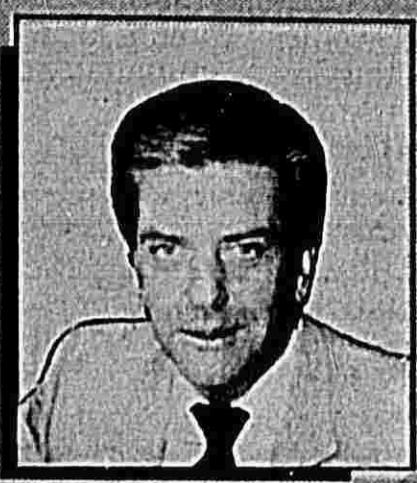

The savings more than offset the cost of the heater. Which doesn't even begin to take into account what you'll save the next year. And the next year. And the year after.

So why pay to heat your furniture? Unless of course, you have money to burn.

End of lawsuit means victory for taxpayers

Fred L. Foreman, Lake County State's Attorney, and Jack "Red" Anderson, Lake County Treasurer, have announced the conclusion of a lawsuit in which the taxpayers and taxing districts of Lake County saved approximately $450,000 in public funds.

In February, 1985 following the termination of a class action suit entitled "Aptakisic-Tripp School Dist. No. 102" vs. "County of Lake," 81 CH 479, the plaintiffs' attorneys in that lawsuit filed an attorney's fee petition requesting payment of $534,000 as and for attorneys fees.

In response to that fee request, the State's Attorney and treasurer filed objections to the fee petition asserting that the requested fees were grossly overstated. They were joined in their objections to the fee request by 51 Lake County taxing districts, including a substantial percentage of the school districts of this county.

As a result of the objections of the state's attorney and treasurer of behalf of the people of Lake County and the Lake County taxing districts, and the objections of 51 of those taxing districts, following a one week trial and an appeal from the trial court decision, the Illinois Appellate Court on June 17 awarded only $84,772.50 as attorney's fees, not the fee the attorneys had requested.

On Oct. 20, the Illinois Supreme Court denied the petition for leave to appeal of those attorneys and the mandate of that court was issued last week.

The result of this case is indicative of the close scrutiny of all matters relating to public finances in Lake County which are provided as a matter of policy by the Lake County State's Attorney and the Lake County Treasurer.

Special mention must be provided to former Chief Deputy State's Attorney James C. Bakk, now in private practice in Waukegan, for the close attention and service provided in the defense of the case. In addition, both Donald M. Lonchar Jr., who represented the Waukegan Public Schools and other taxing districts, and Patricia Hatamyan, who represented Twp. High School Dist. 113, must be congratulated for their efforts in the defense of the case.

In conclusion, this case represents a victory for Lake County taxpayers.

Musical notes

The Waukegan Symphony Chorus and Chamber Singers will hold their annual Christmas Concert at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 5, at 8 p.m., at the Genesee Theater in Waukegan. The renowned singers will be featuring Christmas music from several centuries, popular seasonal favorites, and a combined chorus and audience Christmas carol sing-a-long. Backing the chorus will be the Pitzen Brass Ensemble and Robert Ward at the organ.

For more great Yule music to get everyone into the holiday mood, the Metropolitan Chamber Ensemble and the Calista Brass will be in concert at the Divine World International Chapel on Waukegan Road in Techy, Ill., at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 12. Call (312) 973-0808 for information.

What's a holiday season without seeing a performance of "A Christmas Carol," the "Messiah" and "The Nutcracker Suite?" Lake Countians can hear the strains of the "Messiah" as a sing-a-long at the First Presbyterian Church of Libertyville, on Sunday, Nov. 29, at 3:30 p.m., at St. Peter's Church in Antioch with Dr. Lynn Schornick, conductor of the Waukegan Symphony Orchestra, doing some of the conducting, on Friday, Dec. 4, at 8 p.m., and at Hawthorn Mall, at 7 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 6.

Calvary Christian School's brass ensemble from Lake Villa Twp. will be performing for Christmas Around the World at the Museum of Science and Industry, Chicago, at 11 a.m., on Tuesday, Dec. 1.

On stage

On Thursday, Dec. 3, Roars North, the Grand Slam in Waukegan, and Roars West, Frigate in Ingleside, will be featuring comedian Lewie Schneider with Frank Tassini as emcee. Show time is 7:30 p.m. in Ingleside and 9 p.m. in Waukegan.

A new Al Capone spectacular has hit the area. "Alphonse," a one-man show by Jim Parks starring Michael Azariti, is on stage at 8 p.m., Thursday through Sunday, through Dec. 6, at the Chicago Historical Bookworks in Evanston.

Under things to get tickets for — anyone who hasn't seen the magnificence of the renovated Chicago Theater can do same plus enjoy what promise to be great evenings of entertainment. "A Captivating Evening With Julie Andrews," is coming Jan. 28-31. Johnny Mathis and Henry Manzini and his music will be there Feb. 25-26; the number one rated magician and showman, David Copperfield will spin his spells, March 4-6, and Paul Anka's appearance is slated for April 14-17.

Be there!

To go along with the holidays, A Toy and Doll Show will be held at the Lake County Fairgrounds in Grayslake, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., on Sunday, Dec. 6. Admission for adults is $3 and children can view their dream doll for $1.

Bird watchers can take part in the "Birds of Prey" lookout at the Volo Bog State Natural Area, at 1 p.m., on Sunday, Nov. 29, through Dec. 1.

Good taste

For a special holiday dessert, no baking and slaving necessary—try one of the ice cream Santa Cakes, straight from the North Pole, at a favorite bakery or grocer.

Disney characters on ice

Pinocchio literally jumps for joy when he sees his favorite Walt Disney character, Mickey Mouse, in 'Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom On Ice,' which this time around features the wooden boy with the long nose. Famous skating cartoon characters are delighting audiences of all ages and will run at the Chicago Stadium through Saturday, Dec. 6.

The whole world's a stage like the one at Willow Creek

by GLORIA DAVIS

The Willow Creek Church on Algonquin Rd. in South Barrington has a dramatic approach to religion.

This nondenominational protestant church, founded 12 years ago by its present pastor, Bill Hybels, who is a denominational minister, actually looks like a big auditorium, complete with a stage.

There are three services every weekend, one on Saturday and two on Sunday. In connection with all three rituals a drama group called Suitcase presents a six to eight minute sketch with a contemporary message on living a good christian life.

The church has a staff of 100 people and is probably the only church in the area that employs a full-time drama director, Steve Pederson.

Suitcase has 22 members and is sort of a religious repertoire company. Writers of the different sketches are paid, mostly by the script, but the actors are church members and all of the parts are cast from the group of 22.

The idea of "dramatic" religion is a popular one in the South Barrington area. Last spring, Suitcase did an original musical production about a school reunion that ran five nights and drew an audience of over 10,000 people.

All of Suitcase's productions are done from completely original scripts. The church group is now in the process of putting together this coming spring's musical. Contemporary music is often employed and all the music is supplied by live bands and orchestras.

At the present time, Suitcase is performing a four-theme series being presented on four contiguous weekends. The first of the series, "Home is a Filling Station" ran last weekend and was about a college friend visiting a harassed mother as her children return home from school during the visit, bringing everyday family mayhem along with them.

The second sketch in the series, called "Home Is a Training Center" deals with a family forcing themselves to spend "quality" time together only to find out through playing a game of Scruples that the children already have a good set of values.

Then comes "Home Is a Trauma Center," which will show that mothers and fathers are not perfect people who always have all the right answers. The series will end with "Home is a Seminary," a sketch about a family that takes in a pregnant friend of their teenager and how they deal with the situation.

"We are trying to show that Christ is relevant in today's society and the lives being lived in 1987," said Pederson.

Pederson added, "Willow Creek Church members are trying to reach out to the non-churched, the non-Christian community and through the use of theatrics show them this spiritual relevancy."

With acting classes and rehearsals, each weekly sketch takes its cast approximately six hours to put the eight minute contemporary problem related sketches onto the church's stage.

"We feel that the present series shows ways to turn houses into homes through our family snapshots developed on stage," said Pederson.

Schedule holiday potpourri for Long Grove

A festive potpourri of holiday shopping and entertainment activities awaits those who visit the Village of Long Grove during its annual "Countryside Christmas" celebration. In the spirit of Christmas, the historic

Christian music ministry

Members of Wildwood Presbyterian Church and Isaiah 53, contemporary Christian music ministry, invite all to fete Christmas on Sunday, Nov. 29, starting at 7 p.m. at church at Sears Blvd. and Sunset in Wildwood.

Women will fete Williamsburg Yule

"Christmas in Williamsburg" is the theme for the December luncheon for the Northwest Suburban Christian Women's Club. All area women are invited to attend and take a break in the midst of this busy season.

They meet at Concorde Banquets on Rte. 12 just north of Quentin Rd., on Thursday, Dec. 10, from noon to 2 p.m.

Scrooge coming to Genesee Theater

It's "Bah-humbug!" time again as Waukegan Community Players presents the musical version of "Scrooge!"

The Genesee Theater's stage will come alive with the inhabitants of 19th century London: Jacob Marley, Tiny Tim and, of course, Scrooge himself.

Dir. Norma Cribb is sure to give this year's show a magical look as Egon Schien returns to play the title role of Ebenezer Scrooge.

The dates of the performances are Dec. 12,

The special feature will be decorating with handcrafted, collectable baskets by Karen Kenney. Everyone will discover that an old basket that is just sitting around can be turned into an item of beauty to give away as a gift or keep.

To put everyone in a holiday mood, "The Merry Caroler," Kathy Poelker from Kildeer will sing.

Saturday, at 3 and 8 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 13 at 3 p.m.

Ticket prices are $3 for adults and children. The place is The Genesee Theater in Waukegan.

Call (312) 662-4290 for reservations. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

"Good Tidings" by speaker Lavonne Domke will share how she handled depression, which is quite common for many around the holidays.

The cost is $7.50, village will be decked out in appropriate fashion: A huge wreath will hang from the covered bridge seen as one enters Long Grove. Stores will be adorned with other country Christmas touches, including old-fashioned pine boughs, antique sleighs and unusual antique and rooftop displays.

Two new activities have been introduced for those who take part in Long Grove's "Countryside Christmas." Children can have their picture taken with Santa Claus inside a 10-foot by 12-foot gingerbread house designed and decorated by Gurnee artist Beth Laubahn.

Adorned with four-foot-tall candy canes and gingerbread men and furnished like a Victorian setting room, the house will be open for photo sessions every weekend starting Saturday, Nov. 28 and continuing through Sunday, Dec. 20. Santa's hours are noon to 4 p.m.

Long Grove also will host a Christmas tree walk during which visitors can view theme trees elaborately decorated by many of the merchants. Included in the display are an Austria tree by Rebecca Anne's Antiques, a toy train tree by the Orange Crate, an apple tree by the Apple Haus, a Dickens tree by Mangel Gifts, a Victorian Christmas tree by Our Little Shop Inc., a Lithuanian tree with straw ornaments by The Gift House, and a tree adorned with antique Christmas toys and tins by Chit-Chat Antiques.

Other special events are planned during Long Grove's "Countryside Christmas" celebration. Each weekend throughout the holiday season, the streets of Long Grove will be filled with vocal and instrumental music by carolers and the Salvation Army Band, as well as the aroma of roasting chestnuts sold by street vendors. Many merchants will be serving hot cider to shoppers who come in search of the perfect Christmas gift.

Visitors can enjoy the "Countryside Christmas" displays throughout the week and entertainment on weekends during the holiday season. Store hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Long Grove's 100 stores and restaurants have long been a haven for holiday shoppers, collectors and antique lovers, offering an array of stocking stuffers and gifts, along with home accessories, foodstuffs, arts and crafts and more.

The historic village, founded in 1847, is located at Rte. 53 and 83 in Lake County, about 45 minutes northwest of Chicago. For information, contact the Long Grove Merchants Assn., (312) 634-0888.

Rock Tracks

According to Ric Ocasek, when The Cars began in 1977, their first album was only supposed to be a mere cult album with no more than 20,000 sales anticipated. That self-titled album, The Cars, sold close to 8 million copies and was a huge commercial triumph for a band which sounded "new wave." Since then the band has consistently released such hits as "Shake It Up," "Magic," "You Might Think," and "Drive," just to name a few. According to Ocasek, the new album Door to Door was "very spontaneous. We wanted to make a more live-sounding record. There were no outsiders except one engineer. All of us pitched in; it was a pure Cars project."

The last Cars album, Heartbeat City, took well over one year to record; Door to Door only took a little over three months because, says Ocasek, "The technology was under the belt. I was happy to be back with the others (Benjamin Orr, Greg Hawkes, Elliot Easton and David Robinson). Ocasek produced this album himself.

For that "lounge lizard of the 80's" Buster Poindexter, hard work is synonymous with fun. When an MTV interviewer asked him if he was enjoying himself on the video set with making "Hot, Hot, Hot," the first single from his self-titled album, he replied, "I'm having a great time. If I have any more fun, they'll have to put me in jail." In a scene filmed in Manhattan's Times Square, the video required someone to appear from behind a grand piano and refill Buster's martini glass. Bill Murray, who just happened to stop by to see Buster and His Banshees of Blue, was happy to oblige, or to be, as he put it, "Buster's manservant."

Pinocchio comes alive in Stadium ice show

The beloved storybook tale of Pinocchio will be brought to life for the first time ever in the family entertainment spectacular "Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom On Ice Starring Pinocchio," at the Chicago Stadium for performances, running now through Sunday, Dec. 6.

The classic story brought to life on ice is family theatre on arena scale, a totally new kind of live entertainment attraction. Presented by Kenneth Feld, the world's foremost producer of live family entertainment, "Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom On Ice Starring Pinocchio" features 1980 Olympic Silver Medalist Linda Fratianne as the Blue Fairy along with a contingent of favorite Disney characters, including Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and many more.

There is hardly a child—or adult—in the world who is not familiar with the heartwarming story of Pinocchio, a little wooden puppet who is brought to life by the wishes of a kindly old woodcarver named Geppetto and who much stick to the "straight and narrow path" in order to prove himself worthy of becoming a real boy. It is a cherished tale that blends fantasy and magic with seemingly impossible dreams come true.

The live production of this classic story will be a special event for families to share together, with an exciting adventure tale and a musical score that includes such familiar favorites as "When You Wish Upon A Star," "I've Got No Strings," and Jiminy Cricket's hallmark tune, "Give A Little Whistle." All this is combined with lavish costumes, special effects, spectacular skating, hilarious comedy routines and the thrill of seeing beloved Disney characters brought to life.

CLC men to feature rebounding as strength

It did not take the College of Lake County's mens basketball team long to prove its coach, Dr. Bruce Smith right about one thing.

"One of our strengths this year will be our play up front. Last year our strength was in our perimeter people and the quickness of the whole team," Smith said.

And sure enough, the biggest reason why CLC beat Highland 82-80 in overtime in its season opener was 44 total rebounds and 22 points from Don Kiesgen and 19 from Bob Bell.

The Lancers' powerful inside game was a reason CLC overpowered Daley in the second contest of the CLC "Tip-off" tournament, a chance for basketball fanatics to get their first roundball fix before the high schools start.

Kiesgen, who scored 505 points for Grant as the Bulldogs made mincemeat out of the Northwest Suburban Conference, is a freshman center at 6-6.

Another part of CLC's up-front attacks is Edward Beskow, a 6-7 center from Waukegan West. Bell, a Warren product and a freshman, is also a center listed at 6-5. That gives Smith some breathing room in the pivot position.

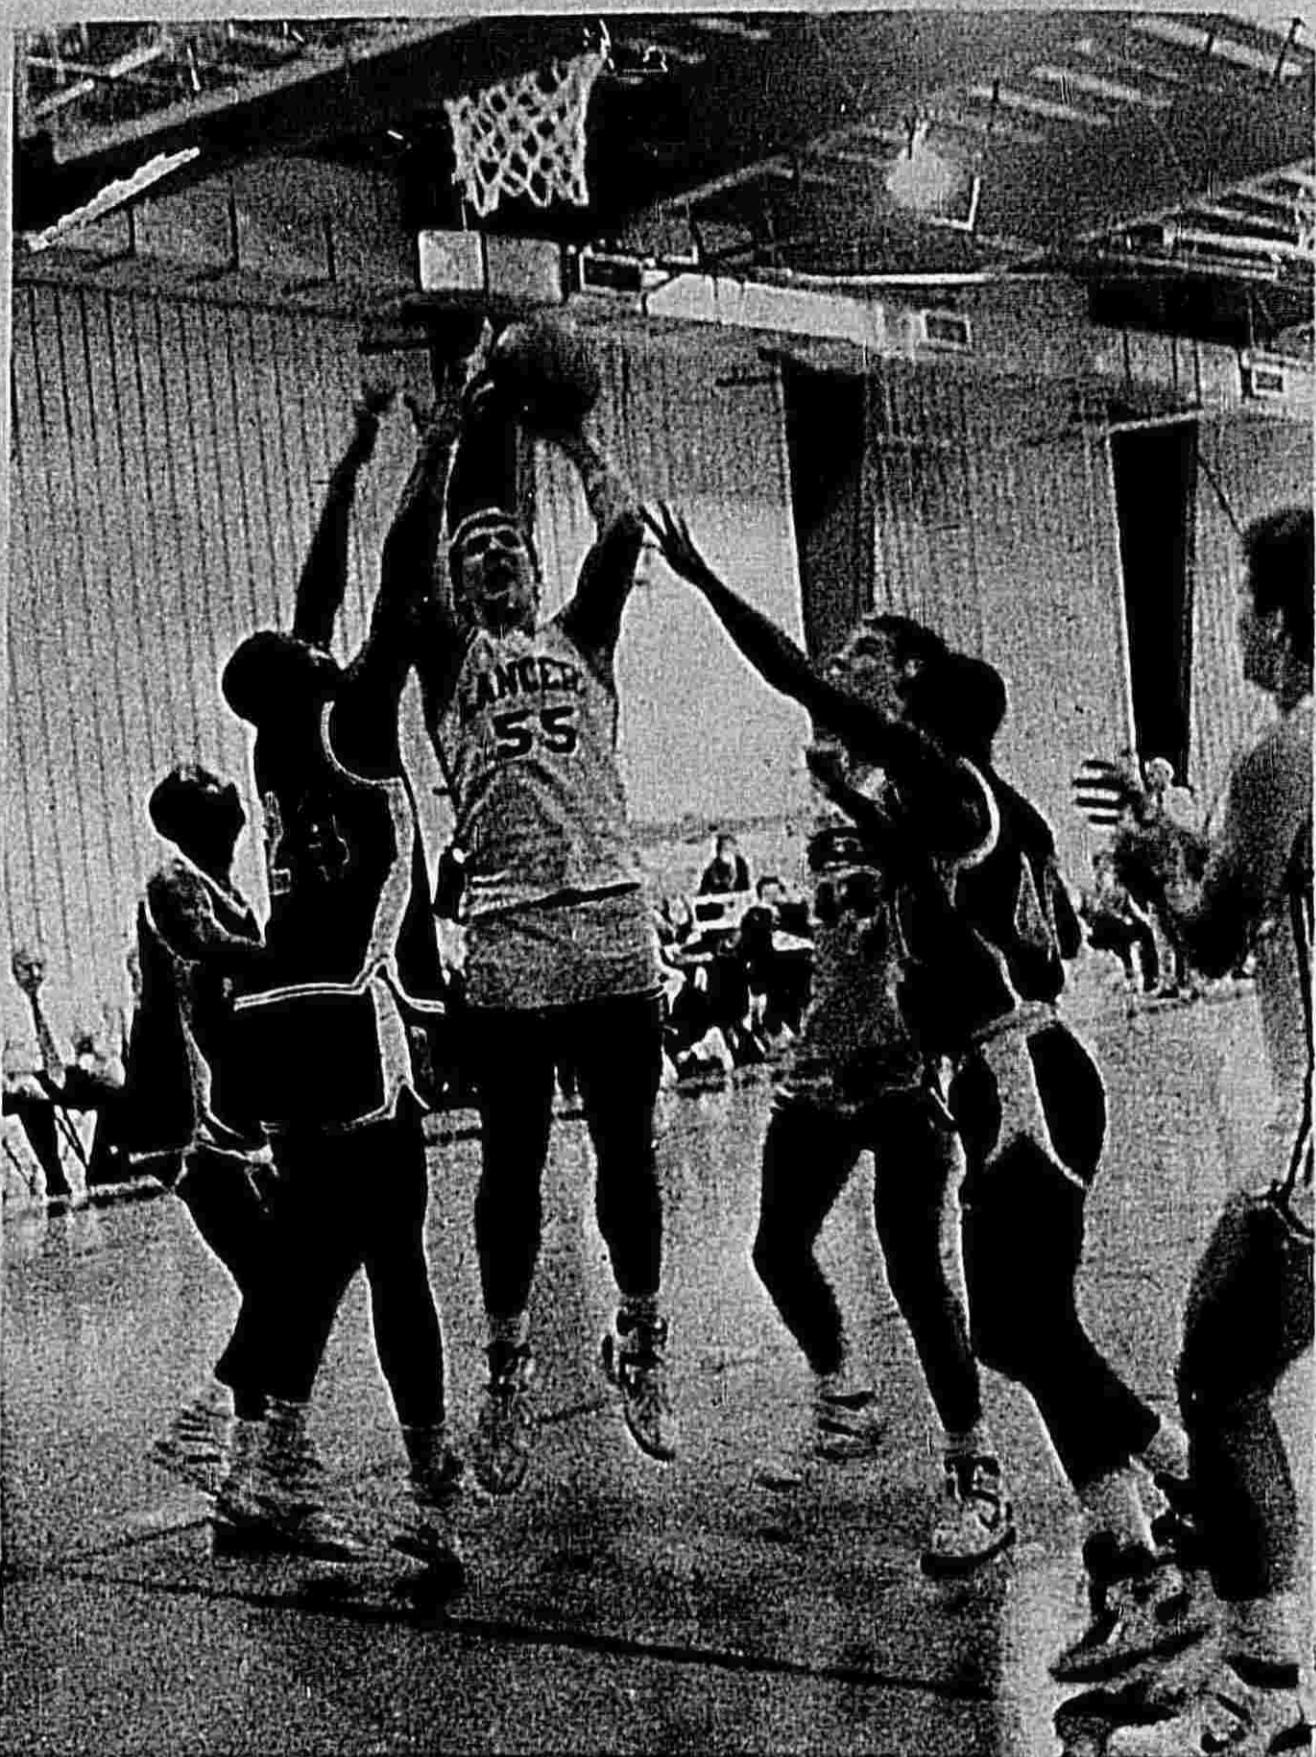

Returning from last year's 18-13 team include Don Gunther, a 6-4 forward from Antioch and fellow ex-Sequoit Matt Weber. Forward Michael Scribner, a former Warren player, saw action off the bench last year.

Joel Elfering, a 6-0, 145 pound guard and a Warren High graduate, is expected to run Smith's one-guard offense.

This is Smith's 19th curtain calling in November at CLC and he remembers vividly his rookie season.

"The first year we had more people try out than ever, 30 to 35. Once we got down to who was eligible, we had 10 or 12. We had some outstanding players

Concentration

College of Lake County's Don Kiesgen focuses clearly on his aim of scoring two more in "Tip-off" tournament play. Kiesgen was named to all-tournament team for his efforts for the Lancers.

All-NSC loop stars return

Several all-North Suburban Conference girls basketball players will be returning for more action during the 1987-88 season.

Warren's Terri Ingalls and Crystal Cobb lead the crew of returning stars.

Mundelein's Susan

Musselwhite and Rachel Lackie return. Musselwhite was the only sophomore for the all-NSC team.

North Chicago has Yolanda May back in its 1987-88 starting lineup.

Niles North's Sheri Rozmus also returns.

Perhaps the biggest name player not returning is Libertyville's Terri Rogers. The 5-6 guard terrorized opponents' defense for four years. Antioch's Julie Sexton also graduated.

Rossberg aims to satisfy Carmel fans' expectations

by STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

When a team wins three straight regional basketball championships, fans and parents have a tendency to expect more of the same.

And it may not much matter if you're a rookie or veteran mentor or what kind of experience a team has.

That's the situation Carmel's Scott Rossberg finds himself in as he begins his first season at the helm of the Corsair basketball program.

"Carmel has had a tradition of success established over the years and that adds more pressure to this team. But there were two types of jobs I could have had: either one with a team that has been struggling or one which has had success. People are expecting a lot out of these guys before we step onto the floor," Rossberg said.

A banner hanging high atop the Carmel High gymnasium wall tells visitors about what the 1984-85 season accomplished: East Suburban Catholic Conference champs, regional and sectional winners. Two years ago, Carmel won regional and sectionals before Evanston eliminated the Corsairs. Last year, Carmel won its own regional but lost to New Trier in the opening game of the sectional.

Rossberg was selected by Carmel to replace Frank Belmont over the summer. Rossberg is by no means a newcomer to the Corsairs system, having served as an assistant at the Mundelein school for five years.

"It has helped that I have been here five years. It's a system all the kids know and they are very good at it," Rossberg said.

The new Carmel mentor greeted 22 would-be players when practice started Nov. 9. Rossberg's first cut as a head mentor was not easy.

"The kids worked so hard that it was a difficult cut. They went above and beyond what you would expect," Rossberg said.

The Corsairs will be fielding a very young lineup to start the season at the Mundelein Thanksgiving tournament

Nov. 24. Scott Stahoviak, a 6-5 forward-center returns and is expected to be the bulk of Carmel's inside game. Kevin Knight, who came off the bench last year, returns to add his 6-6 frame to make a "Twin Towers" effect.

Guard Kevin Talz, who came on strong at the end of Carmel's 18-10 season in 1986-87, will be directing the offense.

"Over the last few weeks of last year and over the summer, Talz has emerged as a leader of this team. His confidence has grown so much," Rossberg said of the 5-9 senior.

Carmel's young players will be in for a rude awakening to the varsity wars.

"We are going to go with guys who have not had a lot of meaningful minutes. We are expecting a lot from our juniors," Rossberg said.

Rossberg said juniors Eric Bruksch and Derek Shaw both have looked good in practice. Bruksch was point guard for the sophomore team while Shaw led the team in scoring last year.

The new coach said he expects other teams to take advantage of Carmel's inexperience.

"It will be important for us to be able to handle the ball against pressure," Rossberg said.

Defensively, pressure will be the watchword.

"I like to use pressure all over the floor. Every time a team takes the ball out-of-bounds, I like to put pressure on them. I think we are a team that can do that," Rossberg said.

In terms of the ESCC race, Rossberg views it as a St. Joseph of Westchester and the rest show.

Goals are something every team and coach sets but Rossberg will not tie his success to "x" number of wins.

"There are obvious titles to achieve - the conference title, a regional. Our first goal is to get better every single day. The wins and losses will come," Rossberg said.

And if Rossberg keeps up the tradition of wins, more banners may be hanging on walls of CHS' gym.

Lakeland BASKETBALL PREVIEW

After 20 loss season, Antioch aims to rebound

by STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

Even if you're Dean Smith, Digger Phelps or Adolph Rupp there are no easy ways to coach a basketball team going through a 6-20 season. Just hope it gets over soon and look to next year for bigger and better things.

Although Antioch's Sequoits fell from sectional play to 6-20 in one fell swoop last year, the Sequoits did have one thing going for them: three key starters will return for the proverbial "next year".

"We're real optimistic. We have three solid players back. We have more experience than we have had in quite a few years. We're hoping to turn things around," Antioch coach Don Zeman said.

The Sequoits, in all, return nine players with varsity experience. The top three - forward Scott Gooch, center Paul Anderson and guard Scott Frasch figure to be starters. David Wick, a 6-0 senior forward, also plans on seeing a lot of minutes. Zeman gives an evaluation of all four:

On Anderson: "we will rely a lot on him inside. He has made a lot. He has been making a lot of improvement over the summer and is ready to share the load this year," Zeman said.

On Gooch: "he started on and off as a sophomore last year. He has matured a lot physically and mentally," Zeman said.

On Frasch: "He started the second half of last year as a point guard. He'll be the distributor of the ball and we will be looking to him to get it to the right hands," Zeman said.

On Wick: "He has a tremendous attitude for the kind of defense we will play. We will use him as a swingman," Zeman said.

Offensively, the returning players give the Sequoits more threats.

"We'll be set up so no one individual will be relied on for most of the scoring. We'll use a lot of passing and screening for movement of people," Zeman said.

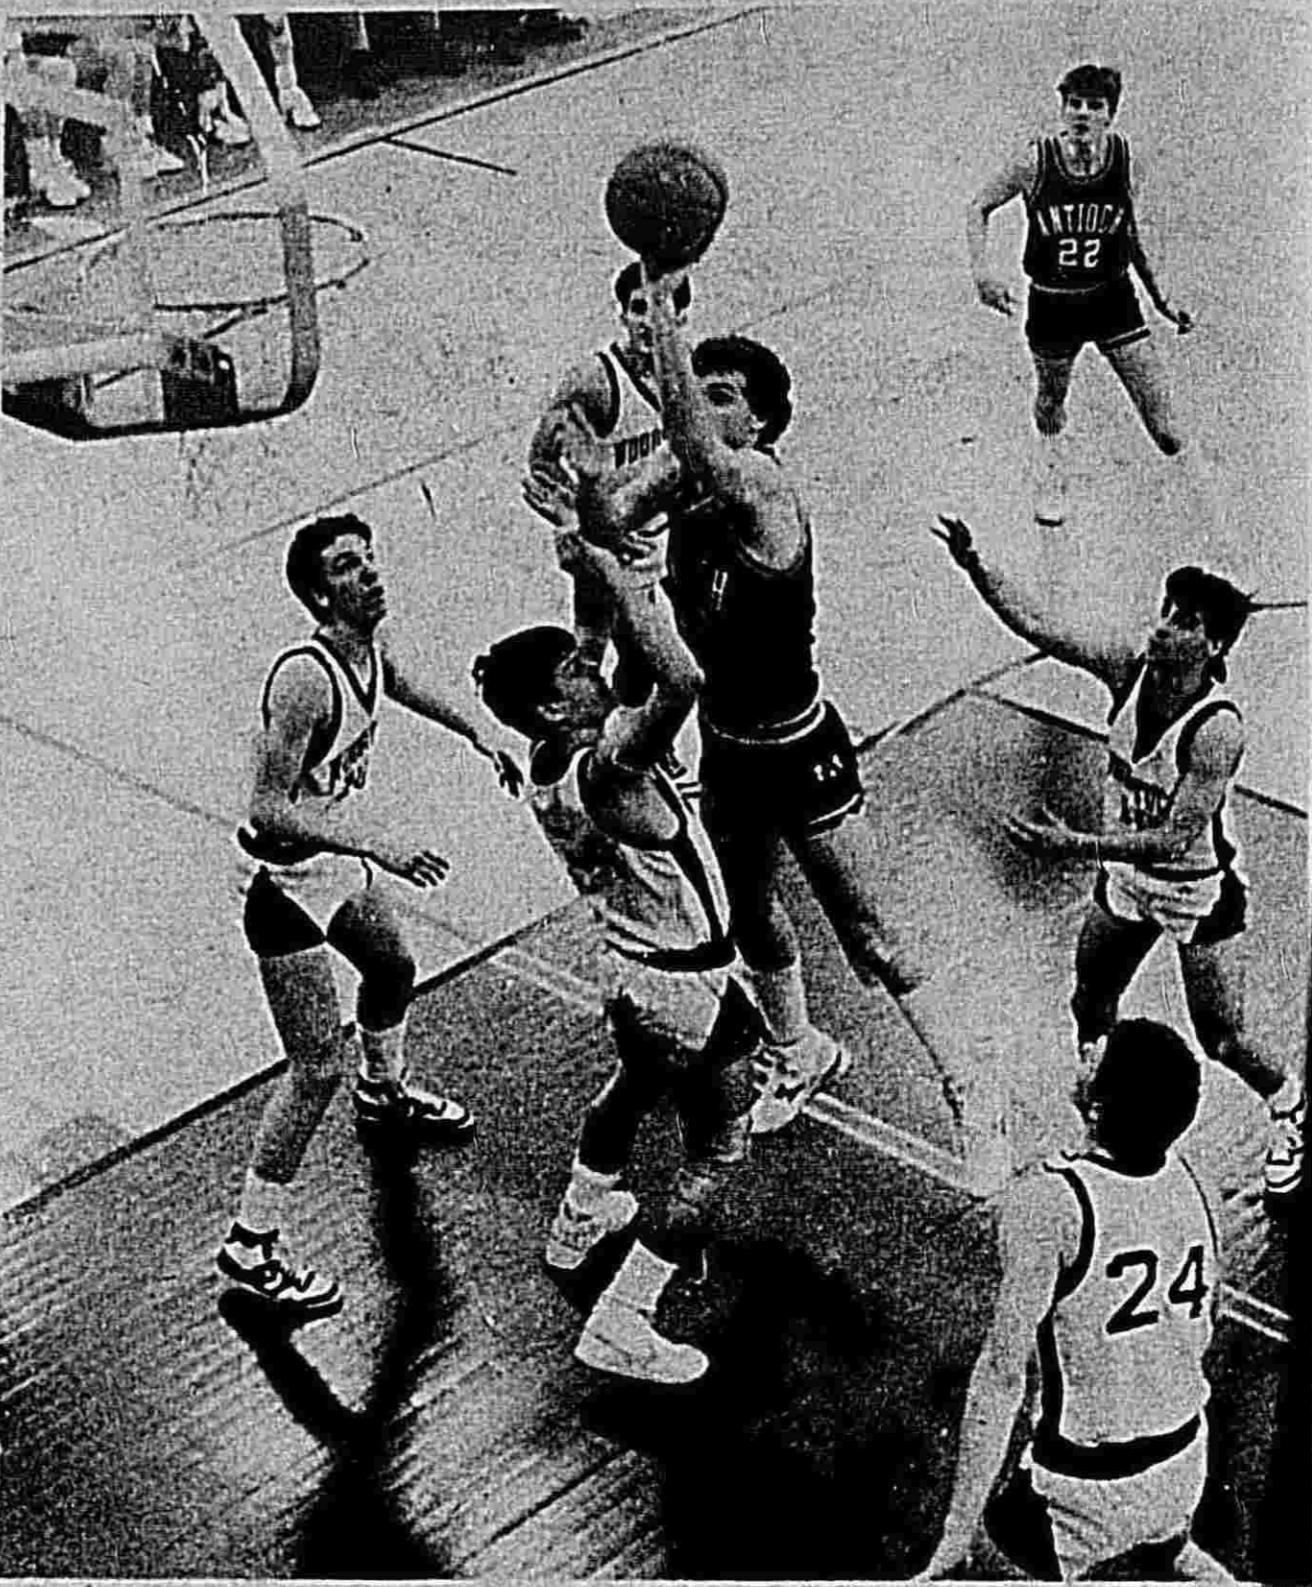

The Sequoits plan on tightening up at the defensive end.

"We hope to use a more aggressive defense. Last year we had to play zone and teams did what they wanted. This year we will play more aggressively full-court and we hope that will turn into opportunities on offense," Zeman said.

In the North Suburban Conference, Zeman picks Lake Forest and Warren as the top two teams.

Antioch's attitude has so far been a plus during pre-season practices.

"We're real happy with our team's work. We had a lot to learn with a new defense. All the kids were on teams with bad unclass records and after 20 losses last year on the varsity level, we want to make up for it," Zeman said.

In heavy traffic

Antioch's Rich Korjenek skies over Woodstock defenders toward two more points in a non-conference game. Although the Sequoits must replace Korjenek, coach Don Zeman has several young players ready to fill his shoes.

over the years," Smith said.

Indeed.

If Smith were to pick players whose numbers will be retired and placed high above the gym floor at the physical education center, the following five would suffice: at guard, last year's star, Greg Washington and Joe Walls, who scored 55 and 57 points in two games in the early 1970s; at forwards, Keith Boulton and Greg Holmann, both of whom played in the 1970s; the center would be David Tucker, Class of '86.

CLC started its initial hoops campaign like many junior colleges do - a coach, a team, basketballs, but no gym. So CLC played and practiced at Lake County high schools - Grayslake, Warren, North Chicago.

Then came the Armory. A now infamous building in Waukegan, at least for basketball fans, the Armory was CLC's home from season No. 2 to 1980. A change of heart by CLC's higher ups and support from taxpayers created the school's present facility.

This time, Wharton aims to bring Warhawks wins

by JAMES STOPELL

In 1972, North Chicago Community High School basketball fans were after Joe Wharton. Why?

Because the Evanston Twp. High School player was a one-man show against the Warhawks. He hit 22 points and the winning free throws to deny NCCHS its first berth in the state basketball finals.

But finally, after 15 years, NCCHS has caught up with Wharton and what is his punishment? He was named the new head coach for the Warhawks; varsity basketball squad.

Wharton was selected by the NCCHS Board of Education Oct. 20 to replace Lester Long.

"I think he will do a good job. He works very hard; he has a good philosophy and he is concerned," NCCHS Athletic Dir. Amos Jones said.

After his high school career, Wharton attended Doane College in Nebraska where he was an NAIA all-American, leading his team to the finals in his senior year. After college, Wharton became the sophomore-varsity coach at Burke High School in Omaha. Burke won the Nebraska state championship in 1977.

Wharton has coached the FAAM (Fellowship of Afro-American Men), an Evanston junior high school program. FAAM feeds into the highly successful high school program. Wharton will undoubtedly bring a new look to the Warhawks.

"We're definitely going to run the floor because we have the talent to do so," Wharton said.

The talent Wharton speaks of mainly lies in the hands of Jim Coles and Anthony Burton. Coles, a 6-1 guard-forward was an all-Lake County mention nominee. Coles is expected to be the leading candidate for the off-guard spot. Burton was also a starter on last year's .500 team and was one of North Chicago's leading rebounders. The 6-2 forward will probably lead the pack of contenders for one of the forward spots.

Other returning team members include: Kenneth Mason, Ryan Frazier, Thomas Newberry, Abe Dixon, Robert Vaughn and Charles Duncan. Also, Albert Moore, Jamil Ahmad, Eugene

Williams and Cassius Crittenton are also expected to contribute.

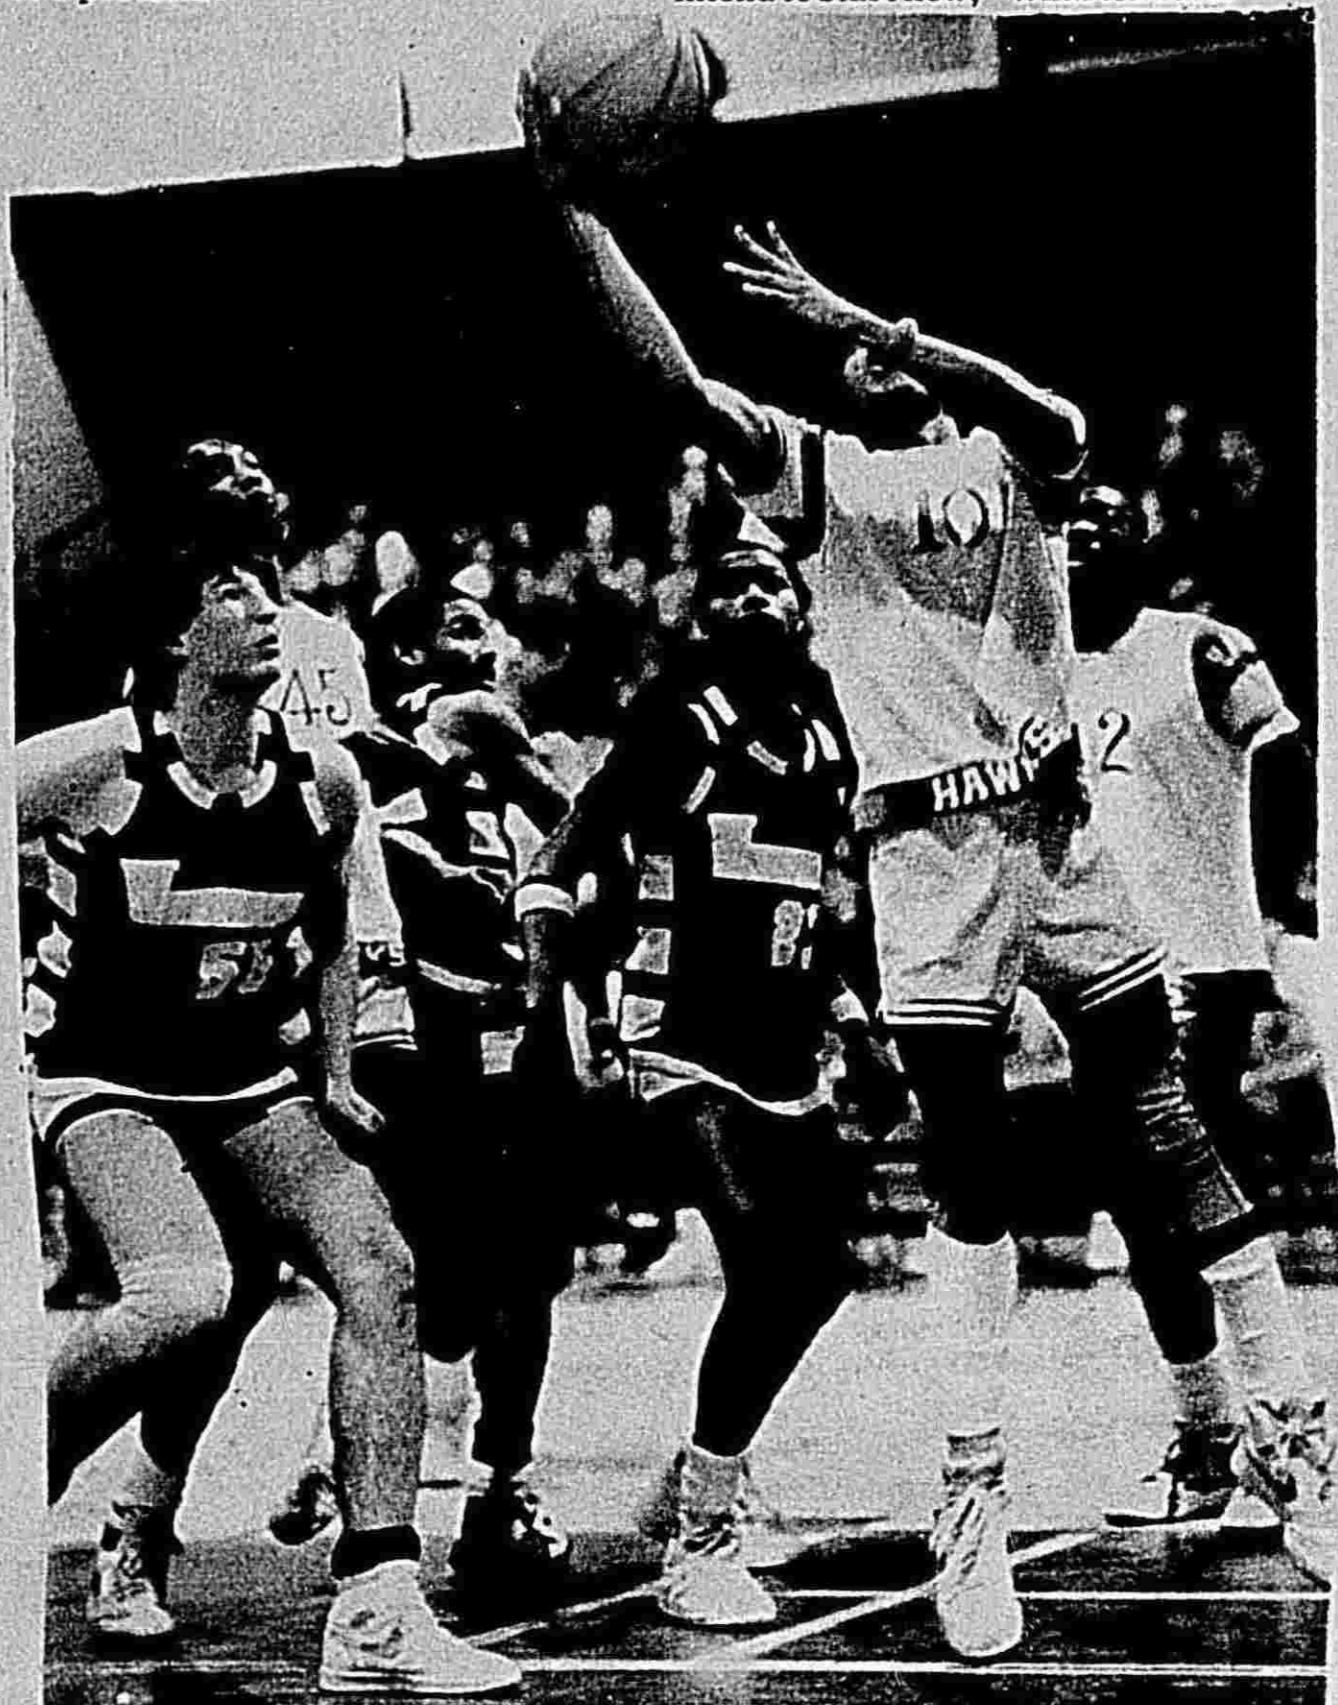

Gone from the varsity roster are Ransley Presley and Bryant Duncan. Presley was an all-North Suburban Conference selection at center. Duncan was the starting guard on last year's team.

Yet Wharton does not think that will be a problem.

"We're going to fill those spots. With the type of offense we'll be running, it should not be a problem," the new coach said.

The Warhawks open the season at the prestigious Quincy Thanksgiving tournament. The Warhawks will be up against some of the best teams in the state. Yet Wharton remains optimistic.

"I've never been a loser and I don't intend to start now," Wharton said.

Mathwig returns, but Mundelein faces inexperience

If competition for varsity starting berths could be used as a good measure for how successful a team will be, Mundelein's Mustangs would be a favorite in the North Suburban Conference.

With the exception of guard J. T. Mathwig, the Mustangs will be fielding an entirely different look for the 1987-88 season.

"Mathwig will be back but the rest of the spots are wide open," Mundelein coach Dennis Kessel said as the first weeks of practice came to a close.

Last year, some internal team problems did not help the Mustangs' cause any. Starters were benched late in the season as MHS struggled to a 10-15 overall record, 8-10 in the NSC. But now the work ethic has returned to Mundelein.

Mathwig will be looked to for most of the scoring early in the season. The 6-0, 140 pound senior guard averaged 18 points and 4.5 assists a game last year. Kessel has seen the development of Mathwig since he reported to the Mustangs as a freshman.

"He has taken more of a leadership role," Kessel said.

Seniors Dave Smith, Doug Sundell and Jimmy Mendoza were all competing for Kessel's starting nod at the other guard spot along with juniors Steve Hartmann and Tim Zentz.

The juniors should see some playing time this year, but will have to make that big adjustment to the varsity level.

"They will have to accept the fact that there are people ahead of them," Kessel said.

Mundelein has four 6-3 players listed on its roster. Seniors MNike Kozien, Tracy Adams and Brian May are joined by junior Tom Ulrich.

At the forward slots, Jason Randall, a 6-0, 160 pound senior and junior Brian Sekenske at 6-1 round out the squad.

No one mentions the Mustangs as possible NSC contenders, but if the team develops quickly, the Mustangs could upset more than a few dreams.

Vaughn tries for two

North Chicago's Robert Vaughn has his sights on two more points. Vaughn, a 5-9 guard, will be hoping to lead North Chicago's backcourt attack this winter.

Three-point play brings mixed mentor reviews

by STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

It's a black mark, 19 foot nine inches from the basket.

At first glance, it looks a bit out of place. Is it for volleyball? A new-fangled physical education or intramural course, maybe?

No, that strange little marking running from near the end of the baseline to the top of the key to the other baseline is now part of high school basketball.

Sink a shot from there, and it's three points.

Coaches are having mixed reviews of the new element of the game as the new season dawns.

"I dislike it. They keep changing things every year and the more I coach and the older I get, the more fault I find with changes in the game. It's one more controversy that the officials will have to deal with. Players have been making the three-point shot for years. If you have the three-point shooter, you have the good percentage shot for him and coaches allow it. It's nothing new; they just painted the line," Grant coach Tom Maple said.

Speaking for the pro-threepointers, Wauconda's Chris Walsh: "It would be foolish to ignore the paint on the floor, but we will not randomly throw up 25 footers. We plan to selectively use certain offensive plays that we feel will produce positive results for our team".

Carmel's Scott Rossberg: "We will use it here and there. No doubt about it. To not have it in the playbook is kind of foolish".

Antioch coach Don Zeman said it should help his team because the Sequoits do not historically have tall players.

The girls will also be pumping it in for three.

"There should not be as much effect on the girls game as the guys' game," Mundelein girls coach Perry Wilheim said.

Both North Chicago coaches, Mike Moore and Joe Wharton, said they will use the three-pointer.

I have a tendency to agree with Maple on this one. Although everyone enjoys hitting the long jumper and ending a practice or pick-up game on a high note, whether it belongs in high school games is questionable.

High school basketball as a game isn't broke and did not need a quick fix for funds.

Anyway, it's the start of another season, another show.

I was looking through the IHSA record book for girls basketball the other night and turned to the page listing state basketball finalists. There it was - in the second girls tournament ever. At Elmhurst - Crystal Lake 62 Wheaton-Warrenville 46. Quarterfinals: Lincoln 66, Crystal Lake 65.

That's right, it's been 10 years since yours truly has been to Champaign as a reporter witnessing a state final. The 1977-78 season, back when girls basketball was at its pioneering days, saw a talented team that could go 20-5.

There's been a few close calls since. In McHenry County, Marengo made it to the sectional final a few years back. After the move east to Lake County and one-half basketball seasons a Carmel's 1984-85 team came within a few second-half bounces of knocking Evanston in supersectional play. Elgin, Warren and Antioch's girls teams both made it to sectional level in 1986 as did the Grant boys. All three were trounced.

Overtime

Other sports have had the pack-the-bag-time, too: Mundelein's softball team reached the Supersectionals last spring and led for most of the game before losing to big, bad New Trier.

The point is somebody out there: the Bulldogs, Bears, Panthers, - anybody could "break the jinx" by making the final eight. Actually, I'd settle for the Sweet Sixteen.

Starting next week, look for a subtle but important change in basketball coverage. The 12-team area plan of College of Lake County will not change, but a switch to local coverage on regional pages hopefully will go over well. You'll see your favorite schools covered, of course, but only the other teams which your favorites play opposed to all the other 11. As always, readers' opinions are welcomed.

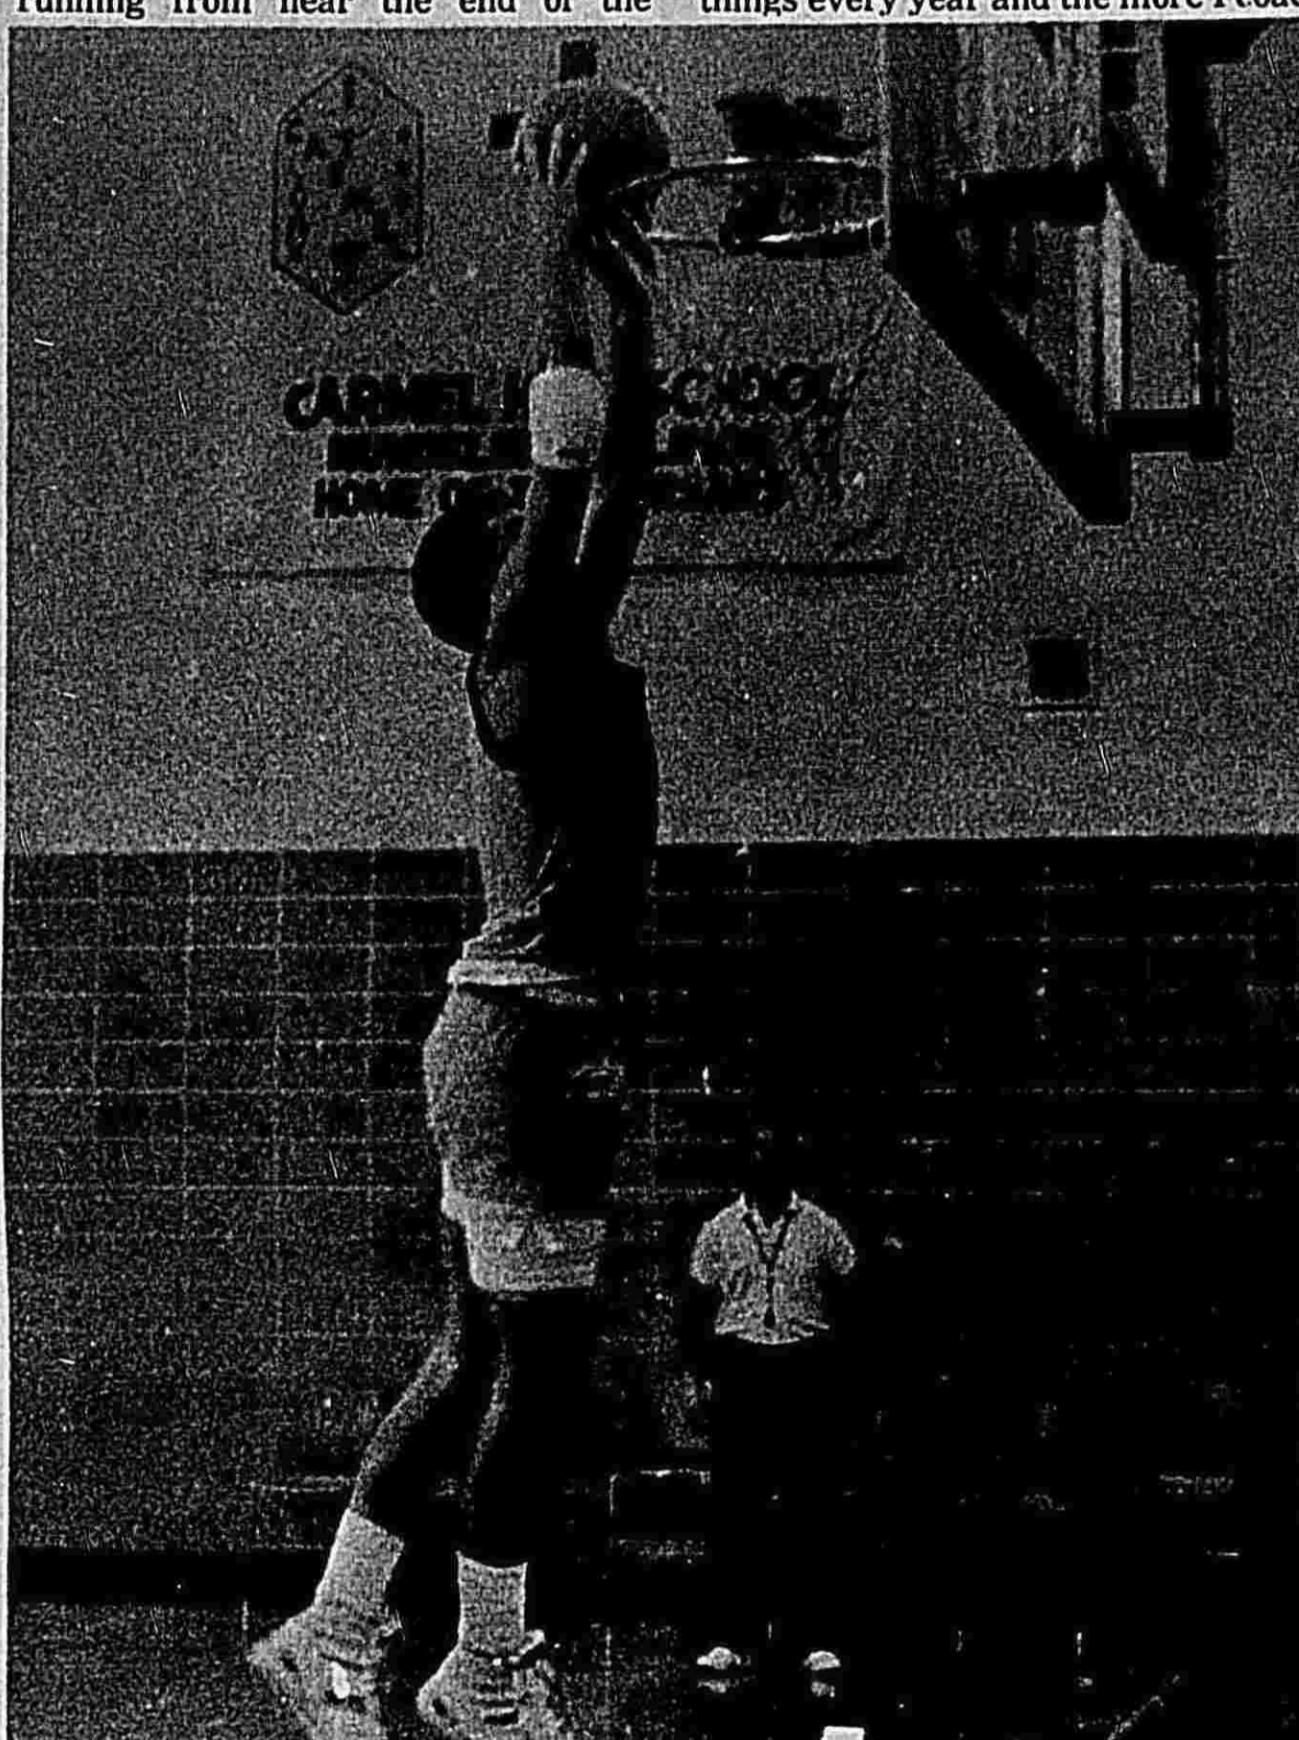

For now, see you on the sidelines.

About this section: in this annual special section, the Lakeland basketball fan will be able to learn about prospects of his or her favorite team in the Northwest Suburban, North Suburban conferences, Carmel, Salem and Wilmot in Wisconsin.

A handy schedule page will help basketball fanatics keep track of upcoming games.

Features include Grant's Tom Maple, who is senior mentor among Lake County area teams.

Although an hour or so will be a good time to read this section, many hours have been put into making it a success. Thanks to contributing writers Jim Becker, Rick Missing and Jim Stovall; editorial assistant Anna Metzel for typing the 14 schedules; photography staff and production for putting up with a tense sports editor and of course all the coaches who took time off from teaching 17 and 18-year-olds how to play basketball to talk about it.

Ready for slam dunk

Carmel's Scott Stahoviak gets ready to slam another shot home during practice session. Stahoviak will be counted on to lead Carmel's inside attack this season. Carmel opens its campaign at Mundelein's Thanksgiving tournament.

Bowen Park Center offers seniors a winter of fun

Many people dread the onset of colder weather because there is nothing to do. The Waukegan Park Dist. looks forward to fall because the lack of summer activities and gardens free folks up to join programs at the Bowen Park Lilac Cottage Senior Center.

Sponsored by the Waukegan Park Dist., the Older Adult Program serves the leisure needs of area residents 55 years of age and older, regardless of residency. The Lilac Cottage Senior Center is located in Bowen Park, on the northeast corner of Greenwood Ave. and Sheridan Rd. in Waukegan. Office hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The telephone number is (312)249-5710.

For the adventurous, the Trip Hit Parade offers one day trips to many destinations. Trips planned for the rest of this year include a shopping trip to the Grand Ave. mall and the Nutcracker Ballet. As far as food, fellowship and fun are concerned, many opportunities are available at the Center. A monthly potluck is held, and throughout the week, many different groups meet at the center for cards, crafts and good times. Poker is played on Wednesdays, bridge games are held Thursdays and pinochle is the fare for Fridays. Preregistration is requested for bridge, so full tables can be scheduled.

If the War Between the States is a hobby, the second Tuesday of the month is of particular interest. At 7 p.m., the Civil War Round Table discussion group meets. Led by noted author T.S. Holmes, different topics are covered each month. The topic Dec. 8 is Civil War-era art.

In addition to the Center, the Haines Farmhouse, home of the Waukegan Historical Society is decorated in Victorian Christmas splendor. Join in for some Christmas cheer between noon and 5 p.m.

In addition to the Open House, the eighth annual Tour of Lights is another favorite Christmas tradition. Co-sponsored with the City of Waukegan, buses take people through the streets of Waukegan to enjoy the decorations and lights that enhance the season. The tour is scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 22.

Details of these programs, as well as many more classes, trips and special events, are included in the monthly newsletter, "Bowen Bylines." For a $3 annual subscription fee, the issues are mailed directly to one's home. Items of interest throughout the community are also included.

For more information on any of these programs, call (312)249-5710.

Surgery not always best for cataracts

Cataract surgery is almost never an emergency procedure—so when a visual problem is diagnosed as "cataract," there is no need to rush into surgery.

In most youngsters, the lens of the eye, which works like the lens of a camera to focus light, is clear. But as we age, the lens "opacifies," that is, it becomes progressively denser and the vision more cloudy. This cloudy lens is called a cataract, from the Greek word for "waterfall." The vision through a cataract is, indeed, very much like looking through a waterfall.

In some people, the visual changes caused by a cataract are minor. The lens may opacify very slowly or the lens may become dense only on the outer edges where central vision is not affected. Some people with these types of cataracts may have less than perfect vision, but the vision may be good enough for them to live normally without surgery.

Others, however, may have symptoms which are more disabling. Early symptoms of cataract include poor vision in situations where there is glare—driving at night, reading in bright sunlight. Later symptoms can range from a slight lessening of vision in normal light to total blindness.

The decision about when cataract surgery should be done is very individual. Vision loss that may be a minor inconvenience to some can be a major disability to others.

But, in most cases, the presence of a cataract does not automatically mean that surgery should be performed. A cataract is not a tumor or a cancer that needs to be removed quickly. A patient's vision or general health won't be hurt by waiting days, weeks, months or even years to have surgery.

While most cataract surgery is not an emergency, the removal of some, called "white" cataracts, may be. White cataracts are extremely dense cataracts, which can cause high pressure in the eye, nausea and headaches when they degenerate; these symptoms can be so severe they result in hospitalization. Patients who have these "white" cataracts have had severe, untreated vision problems for a long time. These cataracts should be removed before they degenerate.

Patients who have been told they have cataracts and require surgery—but who feel their vision is adequate—should seek a second opinion from an independent ophthalmologist. This is especially true when, in addition, they feel they are being pressured into surgery.

Readers may obtain free brochures on "Understanding Cataracts" and "Second Opinion for Cataract

Seniors view retirement as time of new beginning

Used to be retirement made one think of putting in the garden, traveling to see grandchildren and playing bingo at the senior citizen's center. But for many retirees these days, the word retirement has been written out of their vocabulary.

Retiree job banks are springing up across the country as many senior citizens are beginning new careers. This trend reflects the demographic changes in our society. Americans are getting older. One of every nine Americans today is 65 or older. By the year 2030, the proportions will swell to one in five. And studies show that they want to keep working.

Helping to increase the chances for older Americans to work is the Travelers Insurance Co. with its Older Americans Program. Part of the program includes a retiree job bank which brings in retired people to do temporary, part-time work.

The response has been enthusiastic. "I live alone, so the financial benefits for me are important. And it keeps me in touch with my friends," said Mary Seymour, a 79-year-old Traveler's staffer.

Seymour celebrates 61 years on the job this year, and looks forward to many more. She tried to retire in April, 1973, but couldn't stay away.

The company benefits as well. "These older workers are dependable, loyal employees who have a strong work ethic and lots of valuable skills," said Alice Simon, public relations specialist for the Travelers.

While many retirees continue to use their skills from earlier professional days, many older Americans are turning to something completely different.

"Like a cat, I always wanted to see what was around the corner," said Anne Binyon, a fiesty four-foot eight-inch tall senior citizen. At 88, she is the oldest of a seven-member theater company in Chicago called Free Street Too.

Free Street Too is the first professional senior citizen theater group in the United States. Together for 11 years, the group, ranging in age from 65 to 88, creates a verbal tapestry, weaving stories about their lives over the past 75 years and their hopes for the future. For them, acting is a new career that started when the company debuted in 1976.

Binyon had always led an active life, teaching in the Chicago public school system and co-founding the Chicago chapter of Grey Panthers. And she hasn't stopped. She broke her hip last year, but didn't miss a performance and came back with a cane.

"I couldn't just retire and do nothing," she said. "The fact that we touch people is the important thing. Our stories are real, about growing old. We move people."

Dorothy and Ed Rawson of Skokie are also members of Free Street Too.

"You just don't retire from life when you get older," said 81-year-old Dorothy. Her 87-year-old husband retired twice before joining Free Street because he didn't want to stop working.

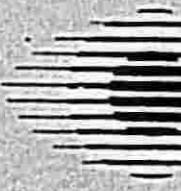

"You can't think about growing old," she said. "Because what's your alternative? It's just a number."

Travel writers offer tips for overseas vacationing

Logging more than 1 million travel miles and 100 trips abroad apiece, 50 of America's leading travel journalists were surveyed for their suggestions for getting the most out of a trip overseas.

Members of the Society of American Travel Writers, the organization of newspaper, radio, television, and travel photography professionals, offer these recommendations.

As a first-time visitor to a foreign destination, one is better off with a familiar hotel chain and organized tour before striking out on one's own.

Do research before going—there are wonderful guide books, and conversations with friends who have been to a destination before are most helpful. The more you prepare, the more you'll get from the trip.

Contact government tourist offices and travel agents for travel assistance.

Pack lightly and in layers. If the weather turns warmer, peel off the layers.

Always bring a folding umbrella and light raincoat.

Bring extra money. Carry just enough currency, and extra cash in traveler's checks.

Charge the hotel, restaurant and souvenir purchases whenever possible. Delayed billing may result in better exchange rates.

Take the time to learn key phrases in the foreign language. This is not only courteous, but will give an entrance to meeting new friends and learning more about the host country. People are charmed by an interest in communicating in their language.

Always remember that you are a guest of the host country and a representative of the United States. Be tactful with criticisms and complaints.

Repeat visitors to a destination should get off the beaten path. Take time to use local or mass transportation and purposely get yourself lost—a taxi can always be taken back to the hotel.

Go off season for greater savings and fewer crowds.

Learn tipping customs before going. Avoid embarrassing situations.

Take normal security precautions, the same ones that would be taken at home. Don't flash a wallet around, or boast of extravagant purchases in public; and don't wear unnecessarily gaudy jewelry.

Try to spend at least two or three days in one place; don't try to do 10 cities in 11 days.

People watch. The best places are outdoor cafes and public plazas or parks. Ask questions. Be courteous, and be open to the experience of learning, adventure and meeting new friends.

Outreach workers provide referral

Outreach workers from Catholic Charities are available to inform older Americans of their opportunities and benefits through information, referral and assistance.

The non-sectarian service is available, free of charge, to all seniors. Visits may be to individuals or groups.

The outreach program is the first step in a community care program which links together many community services. Among these services are relief from high utility bills and the filing of circuit breakers; a state-funded homemaker-chore housekeeping program for seniors meeting minimal requirements; home delivered meals; and the Hand-in-Hand support group for those who care for an elderly person.

Speakers are also available to address topics involving older Americans, such as elder abuse, substance abuse, and senior services. The speaker service is also free of charge.

An outreach person may be contacted by calling (800) 942-3930.

Tax aide program seeks volunteers

The American Assn. of Retired Persons is seeking volunteers to assist older persons with their tax returns through the AARP's Tax-Aide program.

Volunteers provide free assistance to taxpayers who cannot afford professional tax help, particularly those who file simple tax returns. The Internal Revenue Service trains the volunteers to assist older low- and moderate-income taxpayers.

Tax-Aide assistance is provided during the income tax filing season in convenient neighborhood locations such as libraries, senior citizen centers, schools and churches.

Anyone interested in participating in the Tax-Aide program may contact Herbert Seyring, coordinator, (312) 662-1201.

Groth, Rams stressing improvement on defense

For the Grayslake Rams varsity basketball team, defense is going to be the key for a successful season. The Rams, coming off a disappointing season last year with eight wins and 16 losses, will find it difficult keeping up with the competition as they have a long way to go for developing their offense.

The Rams two returning starters this year, seniors 6-foot-6-inch Pete Lupori and 6-foot-4 inch Timm West, will have to be the leaders on the floor, according to Grayslake coach Greg Groth.

"Our offense is a little behind. Last year, West was the only guy who could put the ball in the bucket. It's going to be up to the defense to keep us in the ballgame. The defense will be the strength in our team."

We're going to be tough on the rebounds," Groth said.

6-foot-6-inch Ed Schad is out with a knee injury, and 6-foot-6-inch Mike Ryan is out with an injury.

"I don't know if it's our practices or what. But all I know is that they are dropping like flies around here. One thing we will need is a floor leader. I don't know who it is going to be at this point, but we need somebody who can take charge of the situation out there," he said.

Groth is not going to extensively use the three point shot this year as there are not many players who can shoot from that far out.

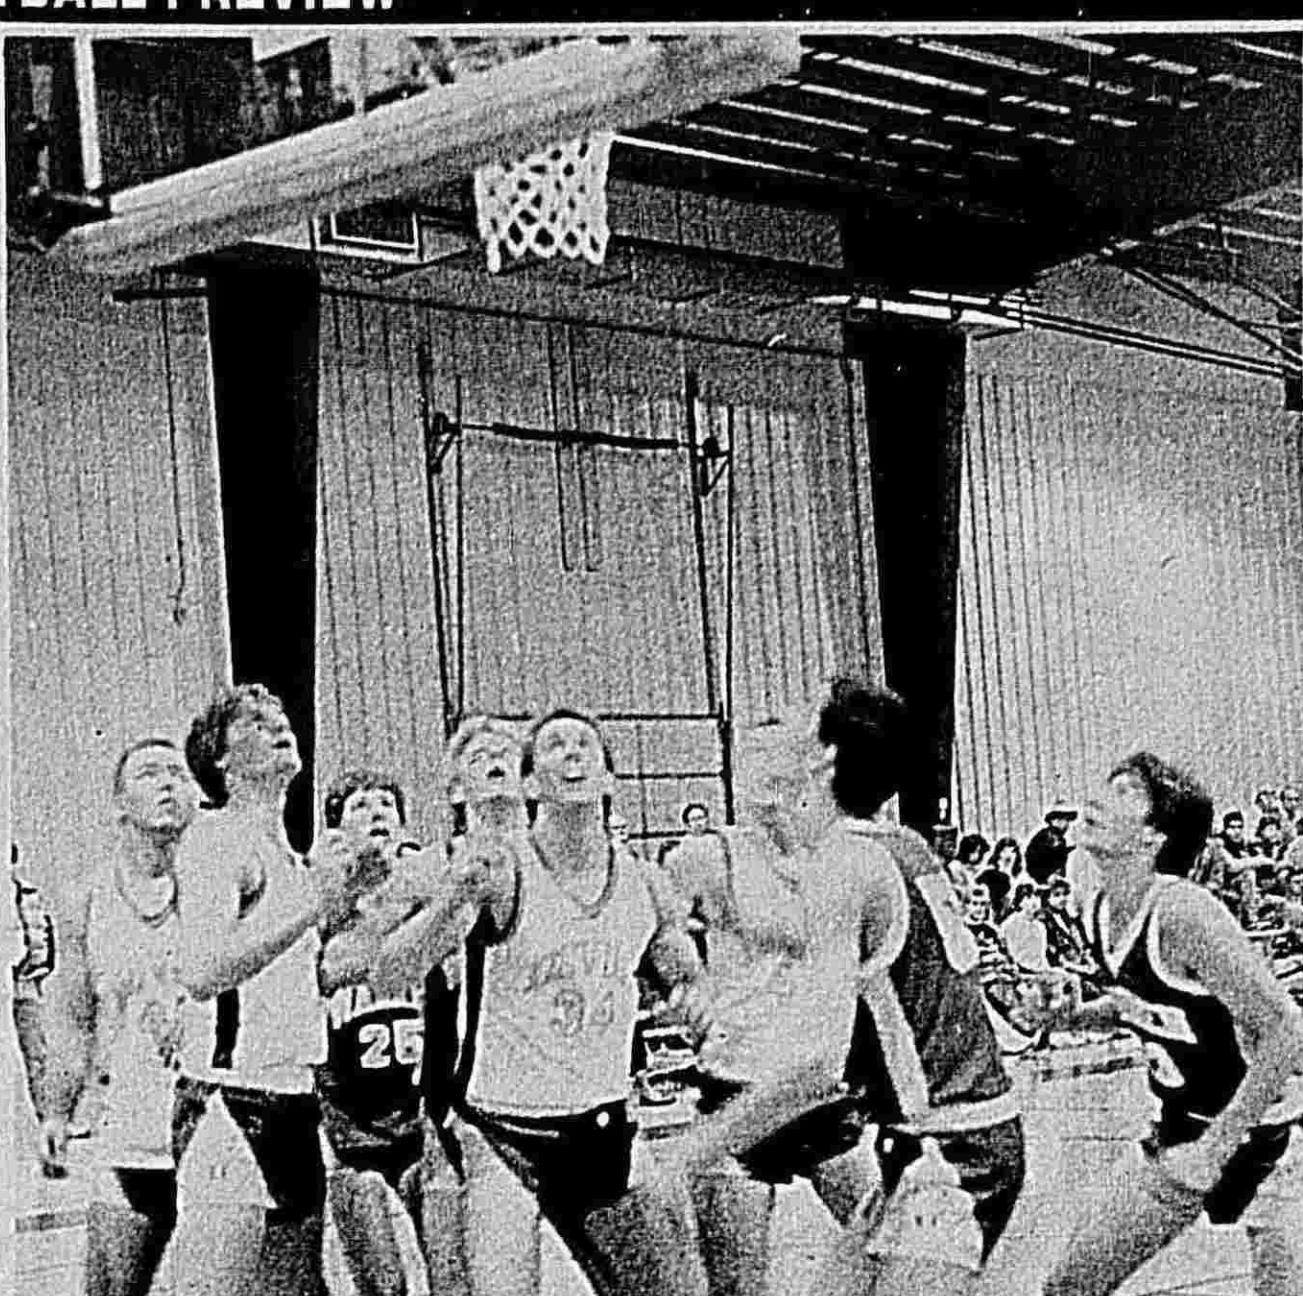

"We have one kid, Shawn Mauritz, who can shoot from just about anywhere. Unfortunately, that's about all he can do. I don't know how the referees are going to handle the three point shots. They have enough problems calling the fouls," Groth said.

Marengo, expected to be the tops in the conference, will be one of the sharp shooting teams Grayslake will face.

"I think Marengo will take the top, but there are going to be a lot of other teams trying to take second place. I can't really predict how we are going to do. Some years I didn't think we would do so well, but we did great. And there were the years

I thought we would be on top, but we weren't even close. Round Lake and Marian Central are going to be right up there shooting for the top spot. It's going to be tough out there," he ended.

Devils vs. Devils

Warren Twp. High School basketball players battle each other for rebounding position in team's final pre-season scrimmage. Scrimmage was held at College of Lake County. Warren is hoping its new gym will be ready for home games in 1988.

Warren plans to return home with experience

Be it ever so humble, there is no place like home.

That old saying takes on new meaning for Warren's varsity basketball team this winter. If no further delays occur, the Blue Devils will be playing in a spangky new gym in 1988.

The building of the new WTHS has already had some pre-season benefits, according to coach Darrel Bader.

"One thing that is helpful is that the kids are going to school in our community," Bader said.

Following the Dec.,

1984 fire, the Warren High students were housed at Lake Forest West campus. Last year's home games were played at the College of Lake County. The Blue Devils are still practicing there and will not have a home game until 1988.

"The problem is we're practicing from 8 to 10 p.m. That's not real good hours," Bader said.

Last year the Blue Devils were 18-8 and was the only team to knock off Lake Forest in North Suburban Conference play. But the young team's mistakes challenged Bader's usually cool head.

"Last year was a frustrating season," he said.

This winter, Warren is led by a group of returning starters featuring point guard Derek Shelton. Shelton, a three-sport athlete at Warren, will be the point guard and run the offense. Last year, Shelton averaged eight points a game.

"He's a complete player," Bader said of Shelton.

Senior Matt Lingenfelser, who started most of the season last year, will be back as a 6-2 off guard.

In the middle, senior Brian Sears returns. At forwards, James Siwek, Dave Nolan and Dave Sjong are expected to see most of the playing time.

"I've seen an improvement in all of them. Nolan has really worked hard on weights and improved his upper body strength," Bader said.

Defensively, teams will be seeing different Warren looks.

"We'll use a multiple of man to man and zone," Bader said.

In addition to the returning players, some juniors may challenge their upperclassmen for playing time.

Qasim Dominguez is a 5-10 guard who directed the sophomores last year. Dave Kuersten, Mark Eifert and Ken Woodward are 6-3, 6-1, 6-1 and could see playing time in the middle.

In the NSC, Warren is picked by several coaches as a contender. But Bader gives the nod to Zion-Benton and the defending champion Scouts.

"The more you see it, the better the kids will work on it," Bader said.

Bader, who has been at Warren for more than 10 years, credits a stable staff year in and year out for making things run smoothly.

"The strength of our program is we have kids willing to work and dedicated coaches," Bader said.

Varsity baseball coach Ron Shelton guides the freshmen and Chuck Ramsey coaches the sophomores.

New Wauconda coach Walsh stresses positive attitudes

By RICK MISSING

All good teams usually refelect the attitude and spirit of their coach. If that is true, expect the 1987-88 Wauconda Bulldogs team to be tough, aggressive and ready.

First-year coach Charlie Walsh is leading this young squad into action with realistically on steady improvement and development.

"We're working hard on all aspects of our game, and with steady improvement, execution and a strong and positive work attitude we will get good results on the court come game time," Walsh said.

Walsh is trying to install a new attitude into the Bulldogs that will make two years which the team has managed just two wins be a bad nightmare.

Walsh has six seniors, six juniors and one sophomore on the varsity roster. "We need to stress a team concept this year. We can't run down the floor and shoot. We'll have to rely on our transition game for offense and on defense, we will be playing a tough and aggressive style that will be up-tempo and put a lot of pressure on the ball," Walsh said.

The Bulldogs are seeking a solid season from senior forward Mark Sutherland. The 6-2 Sutherland was quarterback of the football team. "Mark is a good worker, who has a lot of ability and all the tools to be an outstanding player. As this season progresses, Mark will be our team leader," Walsh said.

The Bulldogs also have high expectations for Chuck Cermak and Mike Morgan.

"Both of those guys will see a lot of time in the guard position, and we will be counting on them to determine the pace and tempo of the game," Walsh said.

Walsh is stressing a positive attitude for his Bulldogs.

"They work hard in the classroom on plays and concepts before they ever get on the court. We want these players to understand that this game is not all physical ability.

Working in this setting will improve our performance for this and other seasons to follow," Walsh said.

Walsh wants his team's trademark that of a squad which works hard all season, striving for constant improvement. "Look at our first game, and then our last game, and I'll bet you will see a different ball team on the floor," Walsh said.

Walsh's previous coaching experience was at Barrington High School. There, he was an assistant junior varsity mentor for the Broncos. Walsh is a 1974 graduate of Barrington High.

Bulldogs attempt to overcome inexperience, regain title

Just as the football team found out, Grant's basketball's 1987-88 squad may discover it's tough to repeat as champions.

Last year, in a banner year for all sports at the Fox Lake school, the basketball team romped past Northwest Suburban Conference to the tune of a 13-1 record. The Bulldogs, overall were 24-4 and won their own regional before being eliminated in the Rockford Boylan sectional.

But all that is past now. The familiar faces - Don Kiesgan, Ron Riachford and Mike Kazlausky are all gone, leaving veteran coach Tom Maple with an inexperienced squad.

"I've been introducing things slower than I did last year. But I want them to realize that not after too many games will I expect them to be accountable for a varsity showing," Maple said.

Many of the players who will be starting last year did see action last season - when Grant's biggest concern was scoring 100 points.

Jim McGeever returns, a 5-11 guard, is likely to anchor a starting spot. Ken Raspid, at 5-11, may get the other starting nod.

On the front lines, 6-3 center Tony Culotta, who has dunked the ball at practice, will be in the pivot.

John Wilhelm and Dave Sparks are also vying for playing time.

"We're going to have to do some different things based on the personnel we have," Maple said.

Maple said the team will maintain the offensive philosophy of pounding the ball in the paint. That does not mean, though, that the Bulldogs will be void of outside shooters.

"We have three or four pretty good shooters," Maple said.

The Bulldogs have become known as the county's top defensive team and Maple does not expect that to change.

"Defense has always been a characteristic of Grant teams. Defense has given us a chance to win a lot of games. Every coach you interview will give lip service to man-to-man defense. But few programs reflect it year in and year out," Maple said.

Grant is not the favorite in the NWSC this year, and Maple is predicting that Marengo will be the team to beat.

"After that, it's up for grabs. Marengo is tough every year," Maple said.

Grant's Tony Coletta sky's as he prepares to slam dunk shot during GCHS practice. Defending Northwest Suburban Conference champs will be looking to 6-5 Coletta to lead the inside attack this season. — Photo by Steve Peterson.

Lakeland BASKETBALL PREVIEW

Despite no lettermen, Bears expect to be tough

The Lake Zurich Bears varsity basketball team, expected to be one of the top contenders this year in the conference, has the speed and quickness this year, but game experience could be the major hindrance in qualifying for the top spot.

The Bears have six returning players, but none of them were starters last year. Coming off the bench was a major part of the players' ball handling experience from last year.

"We had a couple of the kids play last year. Most of our starters from last year were out on the court full time. Six-foot senior Martin Milner, and senior Troy Ong have most of the game experience on our team right now. Most of the other kids were playing on junior varsity," said Bears coach John Nesheim.

"We are going to be quicker this year, though we don't have the game experience. We haven't found out who is going to be a team leader on the floor as of yet. Right now we're busy finding out who fits in where. And in this short time, things are slowly coming together," Nesheim added.

The three point shot is may not be instrumental in the Bears' game plan, but according to Nesheim, the Bears' won't be afraid to use it.

"We're taking the approach that if we get a chance to use it, we'll take it. There are going to be some teams which will be effective using the three point shot. We'll be one of the teams which will use it accordingly," he said.

Nesheim doesn't necessarily see Marengo taking the top honors in the conference, as all the teams have a shot at placing first.

"Marengo is the team to watch. But there are a lot of other teams out there. It has to be one of the most evenly balanced conferences around. Last year it was really a three team conference, with Grant, Marengo and us in there. Everybody else sort of fell behind," he said.

"I'm looking for a good season from the kids. Though there is the lack of game experience, I think we are going to do pretty good," Nesheim ended.

In heavy traffic

College of Lake County's Don Kiesgan finds himself in heavy traffic in game against Highland. CLC's Roger Smith is ready to assist. CLC beat Highland 82-80 to start season.

Pats get new look for rebuilding season

According to Stevenson Patriot Varsity Basketball coach George Katich, this year's team is going to have a new look. A very new look.

"Five of our six starters graduated last year. We are going to have a very inexperienced team. We have five returning players, of which one was a starter," Katich said.

As for the starter, senior 6-foot-6-inch Rob Anderson, a sprained ankle and a rash has kept him out of practice for nearly a week.

"He is having a reaction from the tape. He hasn't practiced for the last several days because of his ankle, and I don't expect him to be back for several more days," Katich noted.

The Patriots will be lacking the experience, height and strength other teams have in the conference, and the coach sees a lot of battling on the floor.

"The kids worked a lot on the three-point shot during the summer, and there are a few of them that can hit it. But we are not going to look for the shot that often. We've been working on the game plan, rather than trying the three point shots. Of course with that shot, most teams will have to extend their defense. But we are not going to go out and look especially for that shot," he added.

The Patriots will be up against a number of teams with more experience and depth this year, said Katich.

Lakeland BASKETBALL PREVIEW

Maple still enjoying his 'hobby' as Grant's head mentor

by STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

It was the 1960s, and Tom Maple had just graduated from Western Illinois University. The ink not dried from his diploma, Maple was an anxious young teacher in Orion, Ill.

He asked one summer's day if he could volunteer and help coach basketball. He was given the assignment of coaching the freshmen boys basketball team.

Today, the Grant High school mentor is still happy he spoke up.

"This is still fun. I still consider it my hobby," Maple said.

Relaxed in a small office outside of Grant's gym, Maple discussed the ups and downs of his Grant career which is now entering its second decade. As the spotlight slips on for the 1987-88 season, Maple has the honor of being the senior coach among Lakeland area schools.

Longtime coaches are nothing new to Grant, though. Only four coaches have blown the whistle at varsity basketball practice since 1949-50.

"Our faculty has been pretty static. It used to be, maybe 20 years ago, there were more teachers coming and going every year. Teachers in general tend to stay at Grant. There were a lot of teachers that started when I did 19 years ago that are still here. We have an older faculty, a steady faculty and that carries over into the coaching staff," Maple said.

Winning also helps and that has been happening at a regular pace since Maple took over from John Schad. Eight of Maple's 10 teams were over .500, two have two topped the 20-win plateau and three have won Northwest Suburban Conference titles. Maple is 171-104 heading into this season, a 63 percent winning clip.

A special kind of athlete tends to be part of Bulldog teams, Maple said.

"We've always had year-in and year-out pretty good material and year-in and year-out material that is pretty hard-nosed. Whatever sport it is, we get the hard-nosed kid for some reason. We've won several ballgames just because our kids are physically and mentally tough," the coach said.

Maple put in seven years apprenticeship as a freshman coach before getting the top job in 1975. Unlike some situations, it was not a case of a coach jumping ship because of the talent well running dry. Grant finished 13-13 Maple's first year and won a regional.

"I can't say enough about John Schad. He taught me most of the important things I know about basketball.

Tom Maple

I learned a brand of discipline from him. I learned a brand of ball control and sound defense from him. I inherited a program that was sound. I learned a lot in the first half of my varsity season," Maple remembered.

Maple's program has reached the level where success is expected each winter. And even when natural talent is not there in a given year, desire often makes the Bulldogs competitive.

"We have a tendency to attract a hard-nosed kid at Grant for some reason. We've won several games just because our kids are physically and mentally tough," Maple said.

The Bulldogs' three league titles were won with teams with different personalities.

"Defensively, none of my winners can compare with the first conference championship in 1976-77. That team was the best defensive team I've ever coached. They played a brand of man-to-man defense the whole season that astounded a lot of observers. Defensively, my second conference winner (1981-82) played an equal amount of man and zone - drastically different. They were physical but not quick. Offense carried them that year. Last year we had a nice blend of offense and defense," Maple said.

Although defense has always been a characteristic of Bulldog teams, Maple has seen some pretty fair players on offense put the ball in the hoop as well.

Asked to pick an "all Grant" team, Maple starts it off with Kevin Kelly and Terry Tylkowski at the guards. Maple said Tylkowski, who set GCHS records in 1979-80, was the best defensive player along with Mike Kazlausky.

Tylkowski scored 605 points in 1979-80 and 490 in 1978-79.

Mark Moats, who scored 534 points in 1981-82, was listed. Ron Richford and Don Kiesgen off last year's team, both scored the same number of points and also added to the list.

Maple, like most coaches, is somewhat of a frustrated player.

In his freshman year at Western Illinois University, he earned a spot on the Leathernecks' roster but did not see much playing time. Then he turned his emphasis to track and field and cross country.

"I went out for basketball as a freshman. I was never cut but I never got playing time," he said.

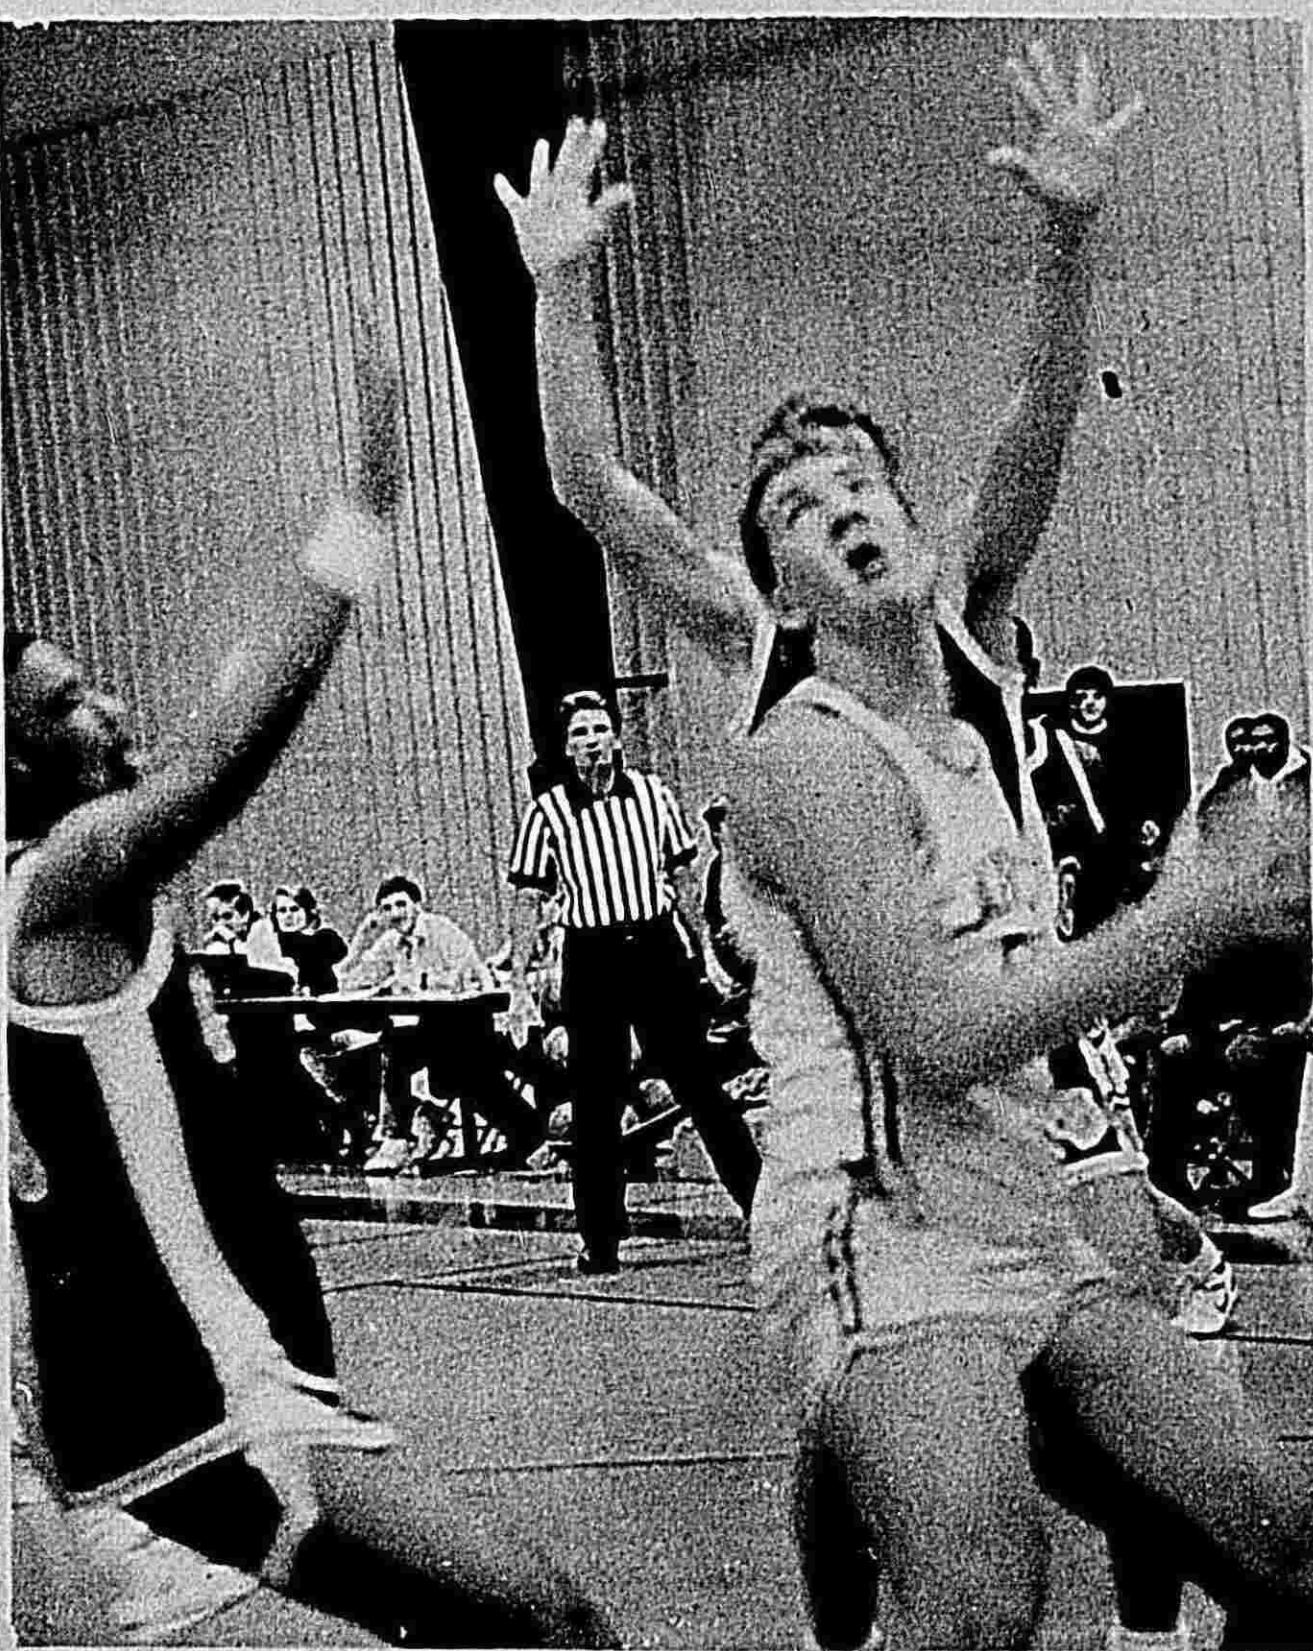

Maple has not opted to coach another varsity sport.

"There are coaches who coach two and three sports. I think it has to compromise their program somewhere," Maple said.

Antioch's Rich Korjenek leaps on his way to two points during game against Woodstock. Although Korjenek has graduated, the Sequoits have many eager young players to fill his roll.

Schornick set to conduct

Once again the Christmas season is approaching and the strains of Handel's "The Messiah" will be floating through the crisp night air.

Dr. Lynn Schornick, conductor of the Waukegan Symphony Orchestra, will be directing the Christmas portion of this most favorite of Christmas oratorios at St. Peter's Church in Antioch at 8 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 4, and again at Hawthorn Mall in Vernon Hills at 7 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 6, in the Marshall Field wing.

Soloists for the production are Gretchen Stevenson-Poland, soprano;

Lee Starr, alto; Ken Smouse, tenor; and Frank Pomponi, bass.

The chorus is made up of voices from the area with the greatest number coming from church choirs. Ralph Brooke is the rehearsal conductor.

A chamber orchestra consisting of members of the Waukegan Symphony Orchestra will accompany the singers.

The Dec. 4 Christmas gift to the community is presented by Persin and Persin Jewelers. Joining the Persins in this joyous holiday gift is Antioch Quick Print, which is contributing the printing of posters and programs.

Margaret O'Brien to appear at antique, collectible show

Bundle up and hurry over on Saturday (noon to 6 p.m.) or Sunday (9 a.m. to 4 p.m.), Thanksgiving weekend for the most delightful Antique-Collectible Show of the year.

"We tried to be different," said Audrey Willman, show promoter. "We planned this show as a fine jewel party shw, placed it in a 24-karat setting, Pheasant Run Mega Center, and then we chose the dealers we love to buy from, displaying marvelous, rare ornaments and early memorabilia."

Toy and doll dealers with merchandise including a complete Schoenhut circus and tent, priced at $10,000 and museum-worthy dolls will be displaying.

Childhood memories will be rekindled magically as one enters the colorful room. Sleighs, glass, quilts, paper, advertising, games, banks, feather trees, keywind Santas, candy containers, mechanicals, doll houses, bears, jewelry, automatons, vintage wear, country and Victorian will all be presented..much of the merchandise has been collected throughout the year and packed away for this event.

Margaret O'Brien, child star of the '40s, will appear both days of the show to autograph O'Brien dolls and talk to her fans.

Sons of Norway will hold holiday dinner

Sons of Norway Lodge No. 606 will hold its first annual Christmas Dinner Party at Chapel Hill Country Club, 2500 N. Chapel Hill Rd., McHenry, on Friday, Dec. 11.

In addition to a family style dinner, there will be cash bar, music, dancing, door prizes, Norwegian bunad doll raffle and bake sale.

Tickets are $15 a person and reservations can be made with Aastri Cunat at (815) 385-6513 no later than Dec. 7. Members, prospective members, familys and friends are invited.

There will be no lodge meeting in December. The next meeting will be Tuesday, Jan. 12. All persons interested in membership are urged to complete their applications at once.

Institution Day is tentatively set for the middle of January, at which time initiation ceremonies will be held.

Visit Santa

Two of Santa's first visitors when he arrived at Hawthorn Center were Angela and Heather Burke of Antioch who were anxious to talk over Christmas lists with him.

Schedule Wyeth art film

The College of Lake County's Southlake Educational Center will present a slide lecture on "An American Vision: Three Generations of Wyeth Art" on Sunday, Dec. 6.

The second program in the Cultural Forum series co-sponsored by CLC and the Kitchens of Sara Lee, "An American Vision" will be held at 1 p.m. at Highland Park High School, 433 Vine Ave.

The slide lecture will feature the exhibit of the collected works of America's most remarkable family of artists-N.C. Andrew and Jamie Wyeth—which will be on display at the Terra Museum beginning in December.

Kathleen Walsh, Terra Museum director of education, will present the slide lecture.

Admission is free by ticket. For more information and tickets, call the Southlake Educational Center at (312) 433-7884.

WXLC hands out prizes

Carla Villalobos of Waukegan found out that the winning was easy on WXLC, 102.3 FM. She and a friend will travel to San Juan, Puerto Rico, as the grand prize winner of the Noah's Ark giveaway. One hundred and fifty listeners won a free "Winter Ready" auto service package from the Ensey Buick of Fox Lake and were invited to the Noah's Ark party at Mitch's Tavern in Park City.

'Rich Hall Show' offers offbeat observations

By Denise Gorga

Where did you last see Rich Hall? Spouting "sniglets" on HBO? Pushing Pizza Hut pizza on his cross-country commercials? Guesting on "The Tonight Show" or "Late Night with David Letterman"?

Rich Hall

Now comedy purveyors who want longer exposure to the lisping, apple-cheeked Hall get their wish. "The Rich Hall Show" airs Sunday, Nov. 29 and Tuesday, Dec. 1 on Showtime.

Hall spends much of this half-hour special on stage, although skits are interspersed throughout. There are disappointments, such as a "heckler" in the balcony who's dressed up as Abe Lincoln but who behaves more like Statler and Waldorf from "The Muppet Show." But Hall's idiosyncratic observations and offbeat associations should keep you interested. To coin a sniglet — a word that doesn't exist, but should — this special is vidiocre: could stand improvement, but has enough laughs to keep you watching.

On Tuesday, Dec. 1, The Movie Channel presents a middle-aged sex symbol in his only Oscar-winning role, "The Color of Money" (1986), Martin Scorsese's sequel to "The Hustler" (1961), stars Paul Newman as "Fast Eddie" Felson, an aging but still-sharp pool shark. Baby-faced sex symbol Tom Cruise plays his protege. Splendid camerawork and a stellar soundtrack assembled by former Band-leader Robbie Robertson enhance the poolroom ambience.

The USA Network is also angling for money — albeit for a good cause. The six-hour "Thanks for Giving" special, which airs Sunday, Nov. 29, will raise funds for the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. Scheduled guests include Bob Hope, Mary Tyler Moore and Frank Sinatra. Gloria Loring and Michael Landon, whose participation should reinforce his nice-guy image, will co-host.

What's the only animated Christmas classic to feature Tiny Tim? Step aside, Snoopy, Grinch, Frosty and Rudolph. The diminutive Dickens character and his love of razzleberry dressing are featured in "Mr. Magoo's Christmas Carol," which airs on the USA Network on Thursday, Dec. 5. Jim Backus provides the voice of Scrooge. Baby boomers and Magoo mavens will remember this special from the '60s.

THIS WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

BY SALOME

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) Some public affairs you have watched take shape are sure to come to a boil now. You might very well find yourself basking in the limelight.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) You can easily improve your efficiency by giving your surroundings a makeover. If you take some time to rest up, your productivity should increase.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Put some effort into the romantic side of your life; your significant other is certain to notice. Be your own best critic for the best results all around.

Cancer (June 21-Jul. 20) If you'd like to throw a little Thanksgiving bash, do it, but do it right! Go all out for the good time you'd like to have with friends and family.

Leo (Jul. 21-Aug. 22) Things have piled up on your desk, so clear that up since a huge workload is coming. If you are direct and precise in your pursuits, you will do well.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You are in dire need of crucial advice; turn to people who can be the devil's advocate for you. You need important information, but research things alone.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) If you need a lift, don't hesitate to ask a friend for a helping hand. If you're up to it, a night on the town with your good pals could be rip-roaring fun!

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Don't dwell on any business matters during the holiday period; you aren't going to find any answers now. Later, however, the information will be there.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) You are itching to take a romantic trip, so do this! If you feel your wardrobe has been deprived, make sure you go out and straighten the matter.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Any rut you've been in must be snapped out of in time for the holiday festivities facing you. Shake things up at home and at the office now!

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) If you think someone is taking advantage of you, let them know before you blow your cool. Make sure you stick to any plans of action you are making.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) Go ahead and take that junket to your favorite weekend hideaway, but be sure family and friends know where to reach you if an emergency arises.

If you were born this week, your magnetism and affectionate nature are well-received by family and friends. Any humanitarian interests you have should be cultivated, since you could be a boon to your fellow man. Also, since you are a bit of a bookworm, be sure to balance your life with healthy, yet less stressful, sports.

WHEN IT COMES TO PERFORMANCE, IT'S GOTTA BE A DODGE DAYTONA.

$8995

The 1980 Dodge Daytona was designed to make driving fun. That's why we gave it a roaring fuel-injected engine, sport suspension, power steering and four-wheel disc brakes.

Inside Daytona, you'll find an electronic mechanical instrument cluster with displays that include tachometer and trip odometer. An AM/FM stereo is also standard.

Outside, Daytona's concealed headlights and sleek design help cut wind resistance - it beats fast riding in the driveway. But if you want more than good looks and great performance, don't worry - Daytona is backed by our 7/70 protection plan!

Another thing you'll love is Daytona's hard-to-believe sticker price. Plus, your Dodge dealer can add even more value with money-saving Equipment Discount Packages. You can save anywhere from $100 to $550* depending on model and equipment package.

If you want to make your driving fun again, see your Dodge dealer today. He'll show you how much fun a 1980 Daytona can be.

*Base sticker price, including tax and destination charge. See this limited warranty on limited warranty and other body and frame damage. It's not included in the manufacturer's limited warranty or other terms of package items if purchased separately.

IT'S GOTTA BE A DODGE.

CLC president reports revised planning system

During their November meeting, College of Lake County Trustees heard a report on a revised planning process for the college. President Daniel LaVista introduced the system during his report to the Board.

"The college has always had a need for good planning," said LaVista, "but recent developments such as shrinking resources and rising costs have made that need more critical."

He cited four key relationships within the revised planning system: college capabilities and external opportunities; internal and external threats to the college and its future; planning priorities and resource allocation; and college employees and college goals.

Mike McGuire, director of institutional research, outlined the two-phase planning process in more detail.

"The first phase is to collect planning information," said McGuire, adding that the information would come from sources both outside and inside the college. By looking at this information along with college goals, the college can then develop an annual and three- to five-year plans.

The Board also adopted a tax levy that reflects a 20 percent increase over last year's levy. The total amount of the 1987 levy is $9,614,793, up from the $7,997,043 in property taxes extended for Dist. 532 in 1986.

Arthur Kent, vice president of administrative affairs, said the levy increase is needed to alleviate a deteriorating financial situation caused by inflation, shortfalls in state funding, and increases in insurance costs and legal costs associated with liability suits. Kent also stressed that because the levy is filed before the official property assessments are determined by the county and state, the actual levy could decrease based on those final figures.

"If assessed values increase as projected," Kent said, "the estimated total tax rate for 1987 will increase by just 1.2 cents." For a home valued at $100,000, the estimated tax increase would be $3.96 per year.

Two announce candidacy for circuit court seat

Two more associate judges have announced they will seek the Republican nomination for Circuit Judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit in the March, 1988 primary election.

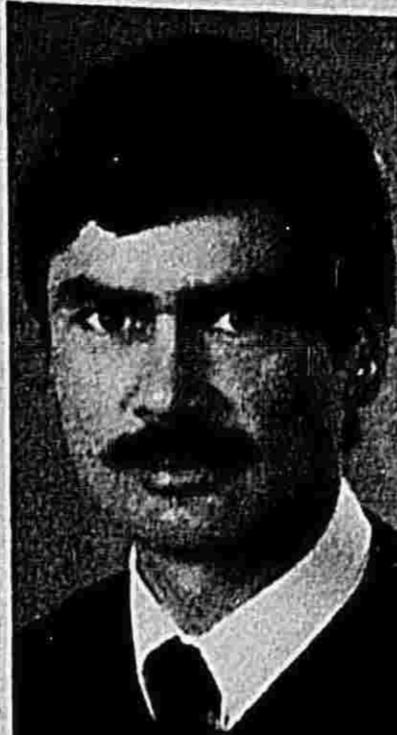

Judges Jane Drew Waller and Raymond J. McKoski are running for one of three new Circuit Judgeships created by the state legislature for the 19th Judicial Circuit, which encompasses Lake and McHenry Counties.

Judge Waller has been an Associate Judge since 1981, and was the first woman judge in Lake County. She has served in all courtrooms with all types of cases. A lifelong resident of Waukegan, she received her law degree from the University of Illinois, and also holds degrees from Trinity College-Oxford University in England and from Northwestern University.

She has been active in professional and civic organizations, and has served as treasurer for State's Attorney Fred Foreman.

Waller lives in Waukegan with her husband and two children.

Judge McKoski was appointed an associate judge in February, 1985. He is currently assigned to hear the trial of DUI cases, and previously presided over civil and criminal cases. He is certified by the Supreme Court to hear felony cases.

McKoski received his law degree from DePaul University, and has served as an Assistant Illinois Attorney General, Assistant State's Attorney and legal director for representing the disabled. He served four years as Chief Deputy State's Attorney of Lake County.

McKoski resides in Lindenhurst with his wife and daughter.

Two of the new circuit judges must reside in Lake County, and one must be a McHenry County resident. All three judges will be elected by citizens of both counties.

SPORTS

SPORTS BRIEFS

Sting on TV

Chicago Sting fans will be able to see their favorite soccer team on Sportsvision, and WPWR-channel 50 this winter.

The first match to be televised will be Tuesday Dec. 15 when the Sting travel to San Diego. Also on the slate: Dec. 26 at Kansas City, Jan. 1 at Minnesota, Jan. 5 at Dallas and Feb. 7 at home against Dallas.

Seek good officials

Grant High School basketball coach Tom Maple believes his sport is facing a dilemma in regards to a lack of quality officials.

"To get their patch, referees take an open-book test. From that point on, probably starting with junior high games, and underclass games, the better referees will rise to the level of their ability. Yet there is a lot of officials doing variety basketball games that are not varsity material."

Top gymnasts

Gymnasts from throughout Lake County represented the Gymnastics Spot in Mundelein at the Class IV meet at Gym West in Naperville. The young gymnasts' efforts were highlighted by the Division A team taking the first-place trophy and the Division B team taking a second-place trophy.

Division A team members include Joy LeBlanc, Emily Roberts, Erin Sona, Liz Novacek and Carrie Gmeiner of Mundelein, Tracy Foster and Jenny Radloff of Libertyville, Chrissy Holik and Cathy Selz of Gurnee, Laura Neumann of Lincolnshire, Stephanie Wooley of Lake Zurich and Tracy Remelaki of Wauconda.

Making up the division B team members were: Gwen Johnson, Kerrie Sullivan, Nicole Pies and Kristin Saedl of Mundelein, Kim Crawford, Kristan Shawgo and Amanda Pfau of Libertyville, Julie Forrest of Lindenhurst, Mary Sandberg of Round Lake, Lindy Chikamore of Lake Zurich and Marcy Scheuer of Lindenhurst.

LeBlanc, Sona, Novacek, Holik, Neuman, Gmeiner, Wooley and Selz all qualified for sectionals.

In the seven and eight-year-old individual competition, Selz received second in the all-around with 20.05 total points. Selz placed first on the bars, second on beam, third on floor and sixth on the vault. Forrest was fourth in the all-around and vault, fifth on beam, third on beam and fourth on floor.

In the nine to 11-year old division, Novacek, Gmeiner, and Sona finished first, third and fourth, respectively, in the all-around with points of 30.60, 30.45 and 30.25.

Novacek was also fourth on the vault, third on the bars and second on the floor exercise. Sona was second on the vault and beam and third on the floor exercise. Remelaki was fifth on the bars and Holik was first on the beam and floor. Neuman received a fourth-place ribbon on the vault and a fifth on the bars. Wooley took a sixth place on the bars and floor exercise.

Chikamore was fourth on the floor and beam.

The 12-14 year-old team members took first, fifth and sixth place. LeBlanc, Johnson and Forrest, making last home individual honors, with a fourth on the vault, third on the bars, fourth on the beam and first on the floor exercise. Johnson was sixth on the bars, first on the vault, fifth on the beam and second on the floor exercise and third on the vault. All ribbon-winning performances were second place.

Waiting for rebound

Johnsburg basketball players fight for rebounding position and watch as shot is launched in practice. Skyhawks will begin 1987-88 season by hosting their own Thanksgiving tournament. For complete schedule of Thanksgiving tournaments, see related story. For preview of your favorite team, see this week's special basketball preview section.—Photo by Dan Becker.

Lancers tangle Wolves in decisive win

The College of Lake County men's basketball team pulled out another decisive victory against the Joliet Wolves and are looking forward to the Harper Tournament Nov. 27 and 28.

The Lancers blew the Wolves away with a 91-79 win on Thursday, never falling behind throughout the entire game.

Don Kiesgen, a six-foot-six-inch first year student at CLC and graduate of Grant High School, dominated the game with rebounds and hit the bucket for 12 points. Top scorer for the Lancers was Antioch graduate Don Gunther with 19 points.

Joliet tried to comeback with the three-point shots from the outside, but came up short. The Lancers played tough on the inside and out-muscled the Wolves throughout the game.

Joliet made good on two three-point shots, though attempted about 13. The Lancers rarely went to the outside, keeping the high percentage plays in view.

"We shoot three pointers," said CLC Head Coach Bruce Smith. "We had the height advantage, so there really was no reason to go from the outside. I scouted them (Joliet) last week and I felt that we could beat them. I knew that we had the height and the muscle to take charge."

The Lancers pulled away early in the first half, outscoring the Wolves 41-29 at the end of the half. Lancer Robert Bell, from Warren High School scored nine points in the first half, Kiesgen hit 10 points and Mike Fisel, of Waukegan East pitched in with 10 points.

Joliet fell short with the two three-point shots in the first half from John Wolnik and Dan Bedeker. Top shooter in the first half for the Wolves was six-foot-two-inch Maurice Houston with eight points.

Despite Joliet's attempt to gain their

Second half dooms CLC Lady Lancers

The news could not have come at a worse time for College of Lake County women's basketball coach Angelo Kyle.

On the eve of his debut, Kyle found out that his two starting guards-Wendy Christina and Lisa Gowe would not be able to play against Joliet because they were ineligible. Welcome to junior college basketball.

"It was difficult because we had it set in our minds who the starters were going to be," Kyle said after a 54-38 loss to the Wolves.

Despite the absence of the guards, the Lancers dominated much of the first half, leading by 14 points at one time. But when 5-11 center Laura Foster had to leave the game with an injury, CLC was dealt a fatal blow. Joliet rallied late in the first half and allowed CLC just 12 points in the second stanza.

After the loss, Kyle was still optimistic about his team's chances for the season. "We just need to iron the kinks out and just keep working," Kyle said.

The Lancers gained a 11-10 lead in the early going on a basket by Robison, who finished as the team's leading scorer with 14 points. That set the team off to the races.

first lead in the second half, the Lancers came out hot, scoring six unanswered points, upping the score to 47-33 at the onset. Second-year player Joel Elfering, a graduate of Warren High School hit CLC's only three-pointer in the game, and hit for nine points in the second half.

Gunther topped the Wolves by touching off 15 points in the second half. Vincent DeVost, a North Chicago High School graduate, hit seven points from the floor.

Turkey tourneys all set

One thing is certain is about this Thanksgiving.

Basketball fans, tired of watching football games, will have plenty to do. Tournaments from Salem, WI. to Quincy will be keeping teams busy the next two days.

At Harvard, Grant squares off against Hononegah at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 27 with Harvard meeting Woodstock in a second encounter. On Nov. 28, Woodstock and Grant will meet at 6:30 p.m. with Harvard and Hononegah to follow.

At Glenbrook South, Lake Zurich will face Stevenson at 6 p.m. Nov. 27. Prosser will face Glenbrook South in the second game. On Nov. 28, Lake Zurich will meet Prosser and Stevenson will battle Glenbrook South.

At Round Lake, Wauconda will meet McHenry at 6 p.m. and the host Panthers will tangle with Dundee-Crown.

Antioch will be competing at the Rockford West tournament. The Sequoits play Harlem at 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 27 before meeting Rockford West at 6 p.m. Nov. 28.

At Mundelein, Carmel will meet Highland Park at 6 p.m. and Fremd will tackle the host Mustangs at 7:30 p.m. On Nov. 28, Carmel and Mundelein will square off in a battle of crosstown rivals at 7:30 p.m.

At Johnsburg, the tournament finales Nov. 27 will feature Johnsburg and Grayslake squaring it off at 7:30 p.m.

Wapon hangs up whistle after 10 years at Antioch

by STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

For the first time in 10 years, someone new will be guiding the Antioch football program.

Citing increased demands on his time, head coach Steve Wapon quit his position last week. Antioch High's Board of Education accepted his resignation.

"It's been a fun 20 years," Wapon said. Wapon was an assistant for 10 years before taking over as head coach a decade ago. The Sequoits were 5-4 last season, giving Wapon a 63-37 final record, a winning percentage of 67 percent.

Wapon is also assistant principal at ACHS and that dual role began to take its toll.

"It's been a lingering problem. I felt I could not give the program justice," the popular Wapon said.

Three years ago, Wapon also had the title of head softball coach. He gave that up when he took the position as assistant principal.

Antioch Athletic Director Harold Abramson praised Wapon's contributions. His job is now to coordinate the replacement search.

"We like to look for someone from inside the school," he said. ACHS will also advertise for candidates.

Wapon came to Antioch in 1967 after serving as a graduate assistant at Arizona State University. In addition to football and softball, Wapon has also served the Sequoits as an assistant wrestling coach.

"Coaching is teaching. When we'll have to holler, we'll holler, but you like to strive for keeping things positive," Wapon said in a pre-season interview.

Wapon leads area coaches in guiding the Sequoits to four playoff appearances. In 1979, Antioch advanced to the final four. In 1982, the team lost to Robeson in the final seconds at Soldier Field in a game which will be remembered by many an Antioch fan.

Gymnastics Spot teams win first, second-place award

Gymnasts from throughout Lake County represented the Gymnastics Spot in Mundelein at the Class IV meet at Gym West in Naperville. The young gymnasts' efforts were highlighted by the Division A team taking the first-place trophy and the Division B team taking a second-place trophy.

Division A team members include Joy LeBlang, Emily Roberts, Erin Sona, Liz Novacek and Carrie Gmeiner of Mundelein, Tracy Foster and Jenny Rudolf of Libertyville, Chrissy Holik and Cathy Selz of Gurnee, Laura Neumann of Lincolnshire, Stephanie Woosley of Lake Zurich and Tracy Remelski of Wauconda.

Making up the division B team members were: Gwen Johnson, Kerrie Sullivan, Nicole Pies and Kristin Snell of Mundelein, Kim Crawford, Kristan Shawgo and Amanda Pfau of Libertyville, Julie Forrest of Lindenhurst, Mary Sandberg of Round Lake, Lindy Chisamore of Lake Zurich and Marcy Scheuer of Lindenhurst.

LeBlang, Sona, Novacek, Holik, Neuman, Gmeiner, Woosley and Selz all qualified for sectionals.

In the seven and eight-year-old individual competition, Selz received second in the all-around with 29.05 total points. Selz placed first on the bars, second on beam, third on floor and sixth on the vault. Forrest was fourth in the all-around and vault, fifth on beam, third on beam and fourth on floor.

In the nine to 11-year old division, Novacek, Gmeiner, and Sonya finished first, third and fourth, respectively, in the all-around with points of 30.60, 30.45 and 30.25.

Novacek was also fourth on the vault, third on the bars and second on the floor exercise. Sonya was second on the vault and beam and third on the floor exercise. Remelski was fifth on the bars and Holik was first on the beam and floor. Neuman received a fourth-place ribbon on the vault and a fifth on the bars. Woosley took a sixth place on the bars and floor exercise.

Chisamore was fourth on the floor and beam.

The 12-14 year-old team members took first, fifth and sixth place: LeBlang, Johnson and Forrest. LeBlang took home individual honors with a fourth on the vault, third on the bars, fourth on the beam and first on the floor exercise. Johnson was sixth on the bars, first on the vault, fifth on the beam. Forrest was first on the beam and second on the floor exercise and third on the vault- all ribbon-winning performances. Sandberg placed second on the vault and sixth on the floor.

Julie Dunbacher of Lake Villa was the coach for the meet and was assisted by Mary Jo Burke.

Johnsburg hopes young players are fast learners

"We don't have the size, but we have the potential," said Johnsburg Skyhawks varsity basketball coach Jeff Lewiston. After a disappointing 8-16 record last year, the Skyhawks are working hard for a successful basketball season.

With four returning players, and a quick team, Lewiston said that the kids have shown a lot of improvement and there are a lot of good things coming out of the early practices.

Tradition.

It has a special meaning that the 1987-88 Wauconda Lady Bulldogs basketball team and third-year coach Don Giebel like.

"We've had some outstanding teams here at Wauconda, and I don't see any reason why we can't have outstanding teams in the future. We had four seniors graduate last year, so that means our team has lost a great deal of game experience. But we have some fine younger players that will play hard," Giebel said.

With eight sophomores on the roster, Giebel is expecting them to be the core of Wauconda's basketball future. "Each one of them has good skills, work hard in practice, and are enthusiastic about this game. They will improve as the season progresses and that will make us better and more competitive in our conference," Giebel said.

Leading the way for the returning players is two-time all-Northwest Suburban Conference selection Devvve Westergard.

"There's going to be a lot of running up and down the court. We don't have the size, and if we are going to fight this thing out with the bigger kids throughout the entire game, we may as well be knocking our heads against the wall. But I think we can be pulling off a good season here," he said.

Lewiston is also going to be pulling off a rarity in starting players. Lewiston will be starting a six-foot-one-inch sophomore, Brandon Cajthamal, and two juniors, Tom Oeffling and Trevor Hart.

"Cajthamal has no varsity experience and he's going to find out what it's like to play in this division. But the confidence is there and I expect a lot of good things from him," Lewiston said.

Unlike other coaches in the conference, Lewiston likes the three-point-shot.

"At first I didn't like it at all. But since we now have to live with it, I have no choice but to like it. We do have the kids that can shoot from out there, and people are going to respect our shooting from the outside. I think it is going to be our advantage using the shot," he said.

Tough competitors don't scare Round Lake

The Round Lake Panthers have one thing that a majority of other teams in the conference don't have this season. Experience. And when it comes down to the end of the season, Round Lake coach Bob Ward expects the Panther varsity basketball team to be in the running for the top spot.

The Panthers have five returning players this year, two were starters and the others had a considerable amount of quality playing time on the floor. According to Ward, the kids on the team have a lot of dedication for making the season successful.

"In general, many teams in the conference have lost a lot of good players this year. It's will take a lot of early work for some of the kids to gain the experience. Though it's early to tell how we will play, I know we have an improved defense due to a lot of hard work and successful early practices," Ward said.

Ward sees a well balanced team this year, and believes that the shooting game will be much stronger than last years.

"We have the kids who can shoot the ball. We should be a pretty good team going into the season. We're taking a hard look at the three-point-play because we do have kids that can shoot from the outside. If those kids aren't in position to shoot the ball from the outside, someone will be there on the inside," he said.

Though there is no set floor leader on the team as of yet, Ward believes that most of the returning players will all be instrumental as being leaders.

"No one kid will necessarily be the leader on the floor, rather each of our returning players will be leaders. Each of them have some very good qualities. There is a (Continued on Page 39)

Stevenson girls' rally falls short, Patriots split two

Stevenson High School christened its spanky new gym with two girls basketball games last week and the Patriots had mixed results.

Stevenson easily handled Antioch 46-29 but then lost to Warren 46-41 for a 1-1 week.

Coach Phil Raffaelli's team will be a young one this winter, featuring several juniors which will see playing time. Juniors Dorian Graves and Amy Pigott will head the team's inside game.

"We'll go nowhere but up. We feel we can play with anybody," Raffaelli said.

The Patriots have already shown that they can make up a big deficit. Stevenson trailed by 14 points against Warren and cut it to four in the fourth quarter but the Blue Devils held on by making clutch free-throws.

Scarpino and DeVaux both had 17 each against Warren.

The hosts started the game on a down note, trailing 10-4 in the early going. They then put together rally No. 1, cutting the lead to 12-9.

Stevenson then suffered a second-quarter letdown, scoring just two points on two free throws.

Meanwhile, Warren built up a 24-11 cushion.

The Pats were not dead, though. Following halftime, they scored eight straight points to cut the lead to five. Scarpino had three of those four baskets.

Warren reopened its lead to 38-24 before the Pats made a final run at the visitors.

Johnsburg

One of the strengths of the Skyhawks is the dedication of the kids. According to Lewiston, the team has sacrificed a lot of things to be out on the court, and has better shooters.

"One thing I'm afraid of is the injuries we've had. We've had two injuries to six-foot-two-inch kids. One of them is out for the season and the other will be ready in a couple of weeks," he said.

Adjusting to varsity play will be only one of the obstacles facing the Skyhawks, the other is Marengo.

"Marengo is going to be big this year. Round

Stevenson made nine free throws and got hoops from Kelly Spencer to cut the margin to 41-37.

Stevenson had the momentum, but the Pats could not come up with that critical basket.

In the season opener against Antioch, Graves had 11 and Scarpino 10 to lead the way. Stevenson led 12-6 after one and 31-19 at halftime.

Lake and Lake Zurich are also going to be tough. Marian Central is improved and can shoot the ball pretty well. The conference is going to be very strong this year. I don't see a lot of teams falling behind of the frontrunners. It's going to be a battle in the entire conference," Lewiston ended.

The conference is expected to be a battlefield this year, as most coaches agree that Marengo will be the team toughest to beat.

"After Marengo, I see a lot of tough competitors in the conference. There are a lot of quality teams out there, and I think that Marengo may have a tough time dealing with some of these kids. Every team is going to have a good shot at having a successful season. There is a lot of talent out there," Ward added.
